REED'S DEFEAT IN THE HOUSE

When He Attempted to Insert a Falsehood In the Journal.

MR. MILLS MEETS HIM BOLDLY. And Turns Him Down With Western Votes.

WASHINGTON, June 19.2 [Special.]-Poor Tommy Reed, the moon-faced despot, - has at last been called down.

The democrats took his scalp in a most artistic manner today, and tonight the big man from Maine lies buried beneath the cold, cold

Like all men who have had a great deal of rope, Reed has hung himself with his own

THE FALSE ENTRY IN THE JOURNAL. Without giving the house any notice, the tyrannical speaker quietly and privately referred the senate free coinage amendment to the labor bill to the committee on coinage, where he intended that it should die, buried in a pigeon hole until he could whip his men into line against free coinage. THE FORGERY DESCRIBED.

When the journal was read this morning Reed's action was discovered, and Mr. Mills immediately moved to strike out that portion in regard to the reference to the bill, from the journal. This meant to place the bill on the speakers table, to be acted upon by the house.

Mr. McKinley moved that the journal be approved, but his motion was voted down by a solid front of democrats and a few republicans. The vote stood 166 to 117, and Reed was defeated on the first turn.

THE SECOND ROUND

Then the question being on Mills's motion to strike out, debate was in order. There was a three hours' debate, in which Judge Crisp made the leading speech, showing that Reed, in a recent decision on public building bills, had ruled that the house had the right to act on a house bill amended by the senate, without reference to a committee. After a number of roll calls on dilatory motions made by the republicans, Mr. Mills's motion was adopted by a vote of 121 to 117, the house, by this action, repudiating Reed.

THE THIRD TRIAL. Then McKinley moved to reconsider, and another of Reed's lieutenants moved to adjourn. The motion to adjourn was lost by a vote of 119 to 120. A number of western republicans voted throughout with the democrats, and, although Reed tried by every means to whip them into line, they refused to be bulldozed. McKinley's motion to reconsider the vote on Mills' resolution was lost, by a vote of

THE DEMOCRATS MAGNANIMOUS.

Then, as the democrats, with the aid of a dozen republicans, had completely defeated Reed, Mr. Mills offered to withdraw a preamble to his resolution which censured Reed severely. The democrats didn't want to hit him when he was down. McKinley, however, objected. Then the democrats voted for it, but the vote was a strictly party one and the pre decision he would have voted to overrule it. Mr. Crisp suggested that if the gentleman done that it would have been the first time he had ever voted to overrule it. Mr. Crisp suggested that if the gentleman done that it would have been the first time he had ever voted to overrule the chair. Mr. Butterworth remarked—smilingly—that the chair was always right.

INGALLS'S TWO-FACED WORK. Reed became so much discouraged at being deserted by his own party that he sent over to the senate for Ingalls, who, after voting for free coinage in the senate, lobied against it in the house. The reason he gave was that Reed promised that if he was sustained he would allow a vote in a few days on free coinage, but even the combined power of Reed, Ingalls, McKinley and all the other party leaders did

FREE COINAGE MUST COME.

A large majority of the house wants free coinage, and they are going to have it, even if Reed has to be sacrificed.

This was Reed's first defeat, but it was a humiliating one, and the big man feels it deeply. It is not known exactly what will be done tomorrow. Some of the democrats want to vote on a resolution placing the silver bill before the house for action, while others think that it would be best, as they are now on top. to wait a few days. The silver bill is now on the speaker's table, awaiting the action of the

WHAT REED MAY TRY TO DO.

It is probable that Reed will have the com mittee on rules bring in a resolution in the morning, referring the bill to the committee from which the house took it today, or some other kind of resolution, calculated to stave off a vote. If, however, the democrats and Western republicans determine to pass the free coinage bill, tomorrow will be another very

The Proceedings in Detail. The journal having been read, Mr. Mills, of Texas, objected to its approval on the ground that the clerk had not read it in full. The speaker suggested that the clerk had only omitted to read such portions as it is customary not to read, but he directed the full

The clerk proceeding, read that portion of the journal which disclosed the reference of the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures. During the reading, Messrs. Mills and McKinley remained standing, anxious to claim recognition. The latter was successful, and he moved that the journal be approved. Upon this he demanded the previous question, despite Mr. Mills's protest that he was entitled to recognition to move to correct the journal. Mr. Springer rising to a question of order, raised the point that the journal contained the record of something which had never happened, and which should not be in the journal. The speaker replied that that was for the house to decide and directed the clerk to call colleagues, entered his vigorous protest, addressing the speaker and saying: "You can ignore the rights of the representatives of the people, but the people will pull you down, sir, at the polls next November, and your party with But the speaker was impertubable and the

The previous question was voted down-yeas 106; nays 117.

The following republicans voted with the democrats in the negative: Messrs. Barton, DeHaven, Kelley, Kerr of Iowa, Lind, Morrow and Townsend, of Colorado.

When the loud democratic applause ceased, Mr. Mills was recognized by the speaker. He offered a resolution, reciting that the order of reference made by the speaker referring the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures was incorrect under the rules of the house, and was made without authority under the rules, and resolving that the journal be corrected by striking therefrom this entry.
CANNON SHOOTS OFF HIS MOUTH.

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, raised a point of or-der against the resolution. It proposed to strike out the entry in the journal which recorded a question of fact. It was not in order, for the reason that if adopted it would have the effect of changing the reference of a bill, with senate amendments, otherwise than was provided by the rules of the house. He proceeded to argue that the senate amendments would require to be considered in committee of the whole. That being so, it was the duty of the speaker to refer it to the committee on coinage, weights and measures. The resolution sought to change something that was in the journal which recorded the reference of the bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures under the rules.

MR. MILLS TO THE FRONT.

Mr. Mills characterizes Mr. Cannon's position as the boldest, most reckless and absurd position he had ever heard maintained in a legislative body. It only showed that a bright, well-stowed, well-disciplined mind, might become beclouded by starting out in error and continuing that course.

"Vice is a monster of such frightful mein, That to be hated needs but to be seen, But seen too oft, familiar with its face, We first admire; then pity; then embrace."

[Laughter.]

The gentleman and his party had started out at the beginning of the session by asserting before the country, by a code of rules, that one man or a trium rirate could control the action of the representatives of 66,000,000 people. Under the constitution the journal was to be kept by the house, not by the speaker or his clerks. He was astonished-while the gentleman was pursuing his argument—that the speaker had not told him, as he had the other gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Springer), that this was a question for the house to determine.

Mr. Peters, of Kansas, though declaring himself a free-coinage man, sustained the speaker's action, contending that under the rules it was the speaker's duty to refer the bill as he had done.

CRISP DOWNS BUTTERWORTH. Mr. Crisp submitted an argument to show that under the rules the speaker had not the power to refer the bill as he had done.

In the course of his remarks he referred to the decision made by the speaker in regard to the Washington post-office bill, which he held was totally at variance with the present de-

Mr. Butterworth controverted the construction put upon the decision by Mr. Crisp, and said that if he had so construed the speaker's decision he would have voted to overrule it.

"The chair hopes that personal matters will not be introduced into this discussion."
[Laughter.]

SPRINGER FOR THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Springer contended for the right of the house to revise its journal and make it show what the majority of the house decided that it should show. The purpose of referring the bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures was to prevent the house from voting on the question of concurrence in the senate amendments. Rules which, it was claimed, were intended to allow the majority to do bus iness and produce results, were now prostituted to the base purpose of gagging the majority of

Mr. Bland held that there was no othe course open but to strike the erroneous reference of the bill from the journal. That would place the bill on the speaker's table again and allow the house to get at it.

Mr. Butterworth said that the time had not come when the republican party was willing to abdicate its control over the business of the house. The question would be put next fallnot in time to affect this question.

Mr. McMillin of Tennessee—But it will be in time for this question to affect it. [Democratic applause.]

Mr. Butterworth held that the real question before the house was whether or not the speaker had referred the bill to the committee not that it was or was not properly referred.

Mr. Springer argued that the silver bill was not properly under the rules, before the house yesterday, because business on the speaker's table had not been reached.

The debate ran along on these lines for some further time, participated in by Messrs. Mills, Butterworth, Springer, Anderson of Kansas, Conger, Crisp, Williams of Illinois, Cannon, Payson, Burrows and Breckinridge, of Ken-

THE SPRAKER'S DECISION.

The speaker, in rendering his decision, said that he desired the members of the house to divest themselves of the idea that any unusual procedure had taken place in connection with this bill. The reference of bills of this kind and in this way, had been of daily occurrence since the adoption of the present rules. The chair desired also, that the house should know that this particular transaction did not take place in a corner.

In the regular course of business, the jour-nal clerk had informed the speaker that among the list of bills to be referred under the rules to appropriate committees was the silver bill, with senate amendments. The speaker had been asked whether he bad any particular direction to make in regard to it. Knowing the bill to be one of grave public importance, and anxious that he should have all the possible light on the subject, the chair had con-sulted the democratic members of the comsuited the democratic members of the committee on rules, Messrs. Blount and McMillin, and the gentlemen from Missauri and Illinois, Messrs. Bland and Springer, Inc. for the purpose of throwing any responsibility upon them but in order that he might benefit by any light they might be able to give. After conversing with those gentlemen it had seemed clear to the chair that the rules of the house covered the question, and that his duty was to treat the bill as he would treat any other measure. Accordingly the clerk was not di-rected to make any change in regard to the reference. The house must bear in mind that this was not a question of politics or currency. It was a question of parliamentary law, and on the decision of the house depended the carrying out of the system of rules the house had adopted. If not satisfied with the reference directed by the speaker, under the present system of rules, the house could change the reference. Did this bill contain provisions which, under the rules, ought to be considered in committee of the whole? There was pro-vision in the original house bill by which certain bullion was to be purchased and certifi-cates issued thereon. The senate amendment was an amendment for free coinage, and for this an appropriation was made. If anything was clear in parliamentary law, it was that this bill was one of those which would be properly considered in committee of the whole, and this being so, it was the ob-vious duty of the chair to refer it in the same manner in which hundreds and thousands of bills had been referred during the present session. The point of order raised by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Cannon) from the journal a question of fact.

While the chair might have some doubt about the point of order, he felt that it was a question the house ought to determine. He would, therefore, overrule the point of order and submit the question to the house.

THE DEMOCRATS WIN. Mr. Cannon moved to table Mr. Mills's reso-

On a standing vote this was carried—120 to 110. Messrs. Morrow, of California; Bartine, of Nevada, and Townsend, of Colorado, voted with the democrats. They stood in little groups on the extreme western side of the hall, and were overlooked by the speaker in his first count, but Mr. Morrow called attention to the omission and it was rectified.

The motion to table was lost-yeas, 118; nays, 123.

But the change proved unavailing. Mr. Abbott, of Texas, and Bullock, of Florida, (whose names were not recorded) stated that they had voted in the affirmative, and the speaker accepting their statements, the vote stood: Yeas 120; navs 118.

STATUS OF THE BILL. of the house today, is purely problematic, and will have to be decided after another discussion of parliamentary law. Even though its reference was erroneous, as the house today decided, it is in the possession of the clerk of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and he has no authority to surrended its custody except upon order of the hous or of the speaker. No such order has been made by the house

(the resolution merely expunging the state ment of the transaction from the journal) and the speaker not being liable to recall it, the bill is somewhat in the position of Mahomet's coffin. There is no record on the journal that any reference of the measure has been made and, therefore, it is doubtful whether a n to discharge the committee of the whole from further consideration of the measure will be in order, or even whether the committee on rules can report a resolution fixing a day for the consideration. On the other hand the bill is in consideration. On the other hand the offlisin possession of Chairman Conger, and he will refuse to take any action in dissonance with the wish of the majority of his committee. having yet been approved, some method may be devised to cut the gordian knot which now binds the silver bill, and some means may be invented to relieve the source from its present

The National Election Bill Presented.

Cabot Lodge Confident That it Will Pass.

ITS TERMS OFFICIALLY STATED

WASHINGTON, June 19 .- [Special.]-Judge Stewart wrote a letter to Colonel Livingston yesterday, announcing that he would be ready in a few days, to go to Georgia, and meet the alliance chief on the stump.

Judge Stewart requests that Colonel Livingston appoint three friends to meet three of his friends in Atlanta, on Wednesday next, and for this committee to arrange the time and place for a joint debate.

The judge will pair with some republican, who also desires to go home to look after his fences.

THE HISSING VOICE OF MR. LODGE. Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, the author of the federal election law bill, said today that he felt very confident his bill would pass the

"It is certain to pass the house next week," he said, "and I have assurance that the senate will change its rules and pass the bill, notwithstanding democratic opposition. Yes, the republican party of the country is combined on this bill and it will become a law."

Mr. Lodge today submitted the report of the committee upon the federal election bill. The report first takes up the question as to the power of congress to enact such legislation. The language of section 4, article 1 of the constitution, declaring that congress may, at any time, by laws, make or alter the regulations with regard to the election of representatives in congress, it says, is so plain that it would seem almost superfluous to enter into argument or discussion as to its meaning. If words mean anything, those words mean that the power of congress over the election of members of this body is absolute and complete. The constitution says that congress may make all regulations with regard to the election of representatives, and the power to "make regulations" thus conferred is in terms exclusive and paramount.

AN "ABUNDANCE" OF CAUTION. But, out of the abundance of caution, the framers of the constitution went further and added words "to alter"-that is, under the constitution congress has power to assume complete control of the election of its members, and conduct them at such times and places, and through such officers and under such rules as it may see fit. On the other hand, congress may, under this clause, leave the entire regulation of the election of representatives to the states, or it may take partial control of a necessary procedure and have what remains to the state, or it may alter and amend the state regulations and supervise and enforce their execution. The report then quotes from the debates in the constitutional convention of 1787 to show the power of congress over the election of representatives is not only para-mount, but can be exercised to any degree, from total control downward, which congress may deem wise, and also from the opinions of the supreme court in the Siebold and Yarborough cases. In these cases the court holds that this constitutional provision gives congress power to interfere, either wholly or partially in elections, and that the power of congress is paramount. The court lso held that under this clause congress had power to treat the state officers conducting elections as federal officers, or to appoint off cers of its own to act as police at the polls for the purpose of protecting elections.

AN "ALLEGED" LACK OF NEED FOR ARGUMENT. In view of the language of the constitution, of its intention as explained by its framers and of full and elaborate decisions of the supreme court of every point which could be involved therein, there can be no need, says the report, for the committee to offer further argument as to the constitutional powers of congress to pass such a bill as that reported. This bill is only a partial exercise of the plenary power of congress in regard to the election of representatives. It provides merely that the United States shall watch over every stage of an election which concerns the choice of a member of this body, shall give to all these proceedings the ost publicity which, in this country, is the surest safeguard of the rights of the people, and shall, by a single act of control, if neces sary, prevent the false certification of a member by any state officer or officers, who may be ready to violate the laws. On the second point involved the expediency and need of such a measure as this-"your committee do not feel that it is necessary to enter into a detailed argument in this report tricts of the country, elections are tainted, and their results prevented by fraud, violence or corruption, is too well known to require in this report an elaboration of the evidence. They believe it to be also well known, that whether fraud, violence and corruption exist to the degree which is generally supposed, or not, there can be no generally supposed, or not, there can be no doubt that such is the popular belief, and that the popular confiderce, which is the only guarantee of a peaceful acceptance of the ver-dict of the ballot-box, has been seriously impaired in regard to the congressional elections in many districts in the United States. Eviduring many years, can be more fitly exam-ined in debate than in a report, if the house desires to enter upon its discussion."

THEY BELIEVE IN FRAUD.

"Your committee deem it sufficient to say here that they believe that fraud, violence an corruption exist to such a degree, and popular confidence has been so largely shaken in regard to elections in many congressionol dis-tricts, that they have little doubt of the ex-pediency of such a measure as this, which they propose, as they have the full and abso lute power of congress to enact legislation of this kind, whenever circumstance seem, as they do now, imperatively to demand it."

Mr. Caldwell, formerly of Gainesville, but now secretary of the Southern Investment company, was married yesterday to Mrs. Lizzie Yost, of Warrenton, Va.

Mr. Justice Lamar and Senator Colquitt left tonight for Oxford, to attend the college commencement.

In the course of consideration of the bill, several omissions or defects having been noticed and supplied, Mr. Cockrell said that the recent reported interview with Speaker Reed, in which the speaker is represented as having "thanked heaven that the house is not a deliberative body," might account for the shape in which this and other bills came to the senate. In the same connection, he recalled a circumstance—that one of the house clerks with a message from the house had announced, some weeks ago, the passage of certain bills

While trying to open the box the prisoner whipped out a knife and began to slash the officer, at the same time endeavoring to break away from him. A tussle ensued, in which the policeman used his pistol, firing three shots. Hamilton fell dead in Market street. There was a tremendous crowd, and much excitement, but a platoon of policemen speedily cleared the street of the thousands of black people from the slums, who had gathered there and threatened to make a disturb ance. The inquest will be held tomorrow. The policeman claims that he acted in selfdefense. His coat was literally cut to pieces, and the knife was found in the hands of the DUNBAR, Pa., June 19 .- The imprisoned miners have been heard from. At 4 o'clock this evening men working in the head of the entry, through which the rescuing party is working its way, sent word down the entry to keep quiet. Every one did so, and in a moment "pick!" "pick!" for a dozen times came the signal from he inside. The men went to work with renewed vigor. The men inside cannot be reached for many hours yet. The rescuing party is within a few feet of the line leading from Mahoning to Hill Farm mine. But after that is reached the men will have to drive through seventy-five feet of coal to reach their

Mr. Storey, who was speaking against the clause when the debate was adjourned Tues-day night, did not rise to resume his speech, and as no one else spoke a division was taken, resulting in a vote of 228 for and 224 against

The tactics of the opposition in snatching a vote while the conservatives were in scanty attendance, surprised the ministerialists, who remained during the voting in a state of panic, fearing defeat. As soon as the figures were announced, there were faint conservative cheers, which were overwhelmed by shouts of triumph from the opposition.

Mr. Tom O'Conner moved to report progress.

He said that the vote just obtained was equivalent to the decision of the house against the bill, and that the government ought to have an opportunity to reconsider its position. THE TORY LEADER'S REMARKS.

Mr. Smith said that the opposition certainly had advantage of the surprise, [ministerial cheers] whatever that amounted to, in the house or in the country. The opposition could take the credit of it. Mr.Storey, he said, had not finished his speech when the debate was adjourned on Tuesday, and the government had, therefore, thought he would continue today. The government now simply proposes to pro ceed with business in the ordinary way.
STOREY DIDN'T WANT TO SPEAK.

Mr. Storey said he did not see why he was under any obligation to continue his speech [Laughter.] Mr. Smith was never satisfied. If speeches were long, he declared it was obstruction. If there was no speaking at all, it was taking the government by surprise. [Cheers and laughter.] The government had taken the country by surprise in producing the licensing bill and they would find before the discussion was over that the people of the country would surprise them.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Futures opened slightly lower in response to a weak report from Liverpool which, in conjunction with the disposition which Speakor Reed made of the sliver bill, quite discouraged the bulls, and summer months were sold down quite freely. Crop accounts continue to be very good, and there is every prospect that the quantity of new cotton marketed in Angust will be unusually large. Cotton on spot was 1-16c lower, with more doing at the reduction.

A Grand Commencement Occasion-The Exercises.

DECATUR, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-The commencement exercises of the Agnes Scott nstitute tonight was one of the most interestng events within the annals of Decatur's At an early hour the spacious hall of the were drawn, and the exercises commenced with an exhibition of calisthenics by the younger class, which was an exquisite preface to the occasion. This class, with the older one, which was perfect and beautiful throughout, was under the special instruction of Miss Valeria Frazer, of the art department, and reflected great credit upon her.

The broom drill, which was under special direction of Mr. T. J. Ripley, of the Atlanta Rifles, was a success in every particular. The music rendered by the pupils of the institute, under Miss Fauny Pratt, was thorough, evidencing much care and attention on the part

BLOOD AT THE POLLS.

The Killing of Hilliard Richardson in Lou-

NEW ORLEANS, June 19 .- A special to the States from Baton Rouge, La., says: The coroner's jury sitting on the body of Hillard Richardson find that he was killed by five men -Edgar Hamilton and his brother, Joe Hamilton; Joseph Merriam, Eugene Taylor and his brother, Charles Taylor. The evidence is that Richardson was assaulted at the polls near Bayou Sara by Eugene Taylor. Blows were exchanged be tween them, when both drew pistols and fired. Both were wounded. Joseph Merriam, running up with pistol in hand, fired at Richardson, who, already wounded by Taylor, wheeled about and fired at Merriam, the ball penetrating his hat. Then there were ten or fifteen shots fired at Richardson by a crowd of men who by that time had completely surrounded him, and shot him from the back, front and on both flanks.

Bob Cornell rushed to the rescue of Richardson, appealing and threatening the crowd. It is stated that Eugene Taylor is dying from two wounds on the head inflicted by Richardson. It is learned that last night a crowd of men went to the residence of Dr. A. R. Holcombe, in Jackson, East Feliciana parish, Louisiana, and fired a volley of shot into his front door. Dr. Holcombe is treasurer of the state insane sylum and is a reputable physician.

WHERE MAXIMILIAN FELL.

The Handsome City of Queretaro, With Its Aqueduct and Its Opals.

From the Detroit Free Press. Queretaro is one of the cities of Mexico that travelers find a sentimental interest in. It was at this place, in 1867, that Maximilian made his last stand. He was defeated; the city fell in the hands of the federal troops. A court-martial sentenced him and Generals Miramon and Mejia to execution. Maximilian was sick and unable to attend the trial. He was sick and unable to attend the trial. He was kept in the convent, but they show the stools upon which the condemned generals sat while the trial was in progress, the table upon which the death warrants were signed, and the coffin in which the body of the dead emperor was brought from the place of execution.

was brought from the place of execution.
The spot is to be seen from the railroad track, just outside of the city, directly after leaving the station. A stone slab covers it, and three stone tablets mark where the condemned stood. They are inclosed by a low iron railing. Maximilian was placed in the center, Miramon at his right and Mejia at his left. All were in full uniform.

left. All were in full uniform.

Maximilian, in order to preserve his clothing from blood-stains, put several handkerchiets about his breast inside his coat. He was taken to the place of execution in a coach, his father confessor alone making the ride with him. There was no whining on his part; he met death bravelv.

There was no whining on his part; he met death bravely.

Almost the whole army was drawn up to witness the event. No speech-making was allowed. He asked that the guns be aimed directly at his heart, and he gave a large sum to be divided among the soldiers as his parting gift. Those who did the firing took good aim; the bullets found his breast, but otherwise his bedy was not myrillated.

the bullets found his breast, but otherwise hi body was not mutilated.

It is said that the soldiers exhibited sorrow at his death and would willingly have assented to some other disposition of the prisoner. Inasmuch as in his last campaign he had unwisely been prevailed upon to decree that all the federal troops taken prisoners should be shot as traitors, and as many had thus been executed, it shows a most forgiving disposition on the part of the Maxican soldiers if they murmured at his fate.

Every influence was brought to bear to save at his fate.

Every-influence was brought to bear to save his life. Mr. Seward, probably the most influential man with the Mexican government, interceded for Maximilian, as did all the European powers. President Juarez stood firm, saying it was impossible to change the decree. At this barren spot on the hillside at Queretaro, with the city, its churches and aqueducts making a noble view in the background, the Emperor Maximilian perished, and with him the empire which, with the aid of England, France and Spain—but principally of France—he endeavored to set up on Mexican soil. I wonder, as his eyes, just before they were bandaged, took in the scene if he thought of his beautiful home at Miramar and the prospects of a happy life there had he "thrown away ambition." Two miles out from Trieste, on the shores of the Adriatic, is the lovely castle of Miramar. I have stood upon its terrace washed by the sea, with the vine-clad and flower-grown cliffs behind it. A spot as picturesque as any in all Europe, where the balmiest winds blow, and every surrounding in nature that can confort the heart of man. His last words were, "poor Carlotta!" recalling his wife, whose unsuccessful efforts to avert his doom, brought upon her the no less sad affliction of insanity. She still lives, and, wandering lonely about the gardens at Brussels, ever looks for his return.

BLAINE FAVORS THE PAN-AMERI-CAN SUGGESTION.

President Harrison's Views Given in His Message Transmitting the

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Harrison today transmitted to congress a letter from Secretary Blaine upon the subject of a customs union, and recommendations in respect thereof by the Pan-American conference. Secretary Blaine suggests an amendment to the tariff bil authorizing the president to declare ports of the United States free to products of any Amer-ican nation upon which no export dues are charged, so long as such nations shall admit free to its ports manufactures and products of the United States. In his letter of transmittal, President Harrison says:

It has been so often and so persistently stated that our tariff laws offered an unsurmountable barrier to the liberal exchange of products with the Latin-American nations that I deem it proper to

Latin-American nations that I deem it proper to call especial attention to the fact that more than eighty-seven per cent of the products of those nations, sent to our ports, are now admitted free. If sugar is placed upon the free list, practically every important article exported from those states will be given untaxed access to our markets, except wool. The real difficulty in the way of negotiating the predictable reciprocity treaties is that we have the profitable reciprocity treaties is that we have given freely so much that would have had value in mutual concessions which such treaties imply. I cannot doubt, however, that the present advantage which the products of these near and friendly states enjoy in our markets—though they are not, by law, exclusive—will, with other con-siderations, favorably dispose them to adopt such measures, by treaty or otherwise, as will tend to equalize and greatly enlarge our mutual exchanges. It will certainly be time enough for us to consider whether we must cheapen the cost of production by cheapening labor, in order to gain access to South American markets, when we gain access to South American markets, when we have fairly tried the effect of established and reli have fairly tried the effect of established and reli-able steam communication and of the convenient methods of money exchanges. There can be no doubt, I think, that, with these facilities well established, and with a rebate of duties upon imports, the raw ma-terials used in the manufacture of goods for exports, our merchants will be able to compete in the imports of Latin-American nations with those of any other country.

If, after congress shall have acted upon the pending tariff legislation, it shall appear that, under the general treaty-making power, or under any special powers given by law, our trade with the states represented in the conference can be enlarged upon a basis of material advantage, it e promptly done.

The National Millers' association, in session at Minneapolis, sent to Secretary Blaine 'the

of lowing telegram:

It is reported that an additional duty of 80 cents per barrel will be imposed upon American flour by Cuba July1st. This would prohibit any possible flour trade between the United States and Cuba. The millers are consequently agitated; hence your prompt telegraphic reply is earnestly solicited.

Mr. Blaine replied today as follows: We have no official advices at the state depart-ment of the 80c additional duty on flour in Cuba. We believe it will make the duty $5.31 per barrel—evidently intended to be prohibitory. The whole subject is within the power and wisdom of congress. It has been constantly said here for the last six months that the western farmers demand the unconditional repeal of the sugar dury. It is within the power of western farmers by encouraging a system of reciprocity, to secure in exchange for the repeal of this duty the free admission of their bread-stuffs and provisions into the markets of forty millions of people, in-cluding Cnba. In my opinion, this is the most profitable policy for western farmers.

DRAGGED TO DEATH.

The Terrible Fate of a Young Man in Ala-

Hollins, Ala., June 19 .- [Special.]-A tragic accident happened one mile from here this evening about dark. Walter Spencer, a fourteen-year-old boy, had been plowing. After unhitching from the plow-stock, he nounted his mule to ride home. The animal became frightened, and throwing him off, his ne entangled in the gear. The mule then ran about a quarter of a mile, kicking him every jump, until finally his lifeless body struck against a tree and broke the gear loose He was badly mangled and torn by being dragged so far.

It shows that for the past quarter, with 135 convicts, the expenditures were $53,650, and the earnings $60,365, showing a profit of over $7,200, whereas, two years ago the excess of the expenditures were over the earnings some $17,000 for the month.

The state board of agriculture adjourned this afternoon, after having made an appropriation for the payment of premiums at the colored state fair.

HELD FOR THEIR LIVES.

The Three Negroes Suspected of an Assaul on Mrs. Taylor. LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., June 19.-[Special.]

From what I can gather, the two negro from Atlanta are not the right men.

Irom Atlanta are not the right men.

Alonzo Dunlap, the first negro arrested, has told a second story to the sheriff, saying the first confession was made to save his life.

"They stopped the wagon, and told me it was not far to the place where they were going to hang me," said he, "and they showed me the rope, and made me feel of it, and said that was what they was going to hang me that was what they was going to hang me with." A QUESTION OF CORROBORATION.

This statement is corroborated by the com lexion of the ginger cake negro. Mrs. Taylor, who has told over and over again what or curred in the few minutes she can remember and told it the same as those who heard her, says there were three negroes, two black and one yellow, the yellowest negro she ever saw Being asked to describe the yellow negro's complexion, she said it was near that of a swarthy white man named Whisenant. This would make the yellow man a very light mulatto, as Alonzo Dunlap, the first negro arrested, is black. The yellow must be one of the other two. Of the two from Atlanta, Andrew Speer is black and Harvey is a dark ginger cake color. Furthermore, Speer and Harvey told a pretty straight tale about their whereabouts, but the correctness of their tale must be quickly established, for they both say they were in the house of Mary Payne three weeks ago today, the day the assault in Gwinnett county was committed, and they say Patrolman Lackey and his party came here, and arrested several negro girls the same day. Harvey says he was a witness in the city court the next day. He did not know the judge, but he was a young man with a light moustache (Kontz). An older man sat in front of the judge, waiting on him and writing orders.

Alonzo Dunlap appears to be one of the guilty three. All is quiet tonight. They have made mistakes in several arrests, and will be careful to get the right party before taking the law into their own hands

MYSTERIOUS ASSAULTS

Made Upon a Prominent Citizen of Ocone County.

ATHENS, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-It seems as if the assassin is yet to claim the life of Mr. E. S. Ware, of Oconee county.

It will be remembered that he was shot from ambush a short while since, and that the would-be assassins escaped after their dastardly attempt. Mr. Ware was in quite a dangerous condition, and for some time lingered on the verge of the grave. By skillful attention, however, he was convalescing when the villian came to finish his work.

On two occasions Mr. Ware has found a man in his room with a shot-gun, and has driven him from it. It being dark he has been unable to detect who the man was.

Thus the assassin seems to be in earnest. It is said that Mr. Ware has conclusive proof as to who committed the first assault, and that he will see that he gets the full extent of the law when he is arrested and put upon trial for the

The party, numbering about one hundred, among whom were many ladies, arrived last night from Savannah. They were taken to the hospitable homes of our people, whose guests they were, and this morning were driven in earriages over the city for two hours. At noon the party boarded the electric cars for Leeton park. where a sumptuous banquet was served, and where, amid the popping of champagne corks, a number of eloquent and brilliant speeches were made. The editors left in the afternoon for Montgomery highly pleased with Americus and the warm reception accorded them here.

AMERICUS, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—A terrible accident, which will probably result in the death of a railroadman, occurred hero to-day. A train-load of steel rails were being carried on the Savannah. Americus and Montgomery road to the construction work at the Chattahoochee river. J. F. Parish, a trackbuilder, was seated on one of the cars. The train jumped the track, throwing one of the cars over, and crushing Parish beneath the Miss Ruth Brown, of Carrollton, Ga., bears off the second prize in this course. In the English course the first honor is borne off by Misses Maud Hardeman, of Clinton, Ga., and Sallie Cohen, of Athens, Ga. This list of honor girls is one comprising several of the brightest young ladies in Georgia. Lucy Cobb commencement opens on Sunday with a sermon by the Rev. C. C. Williams, of Augusta, and promises to be of exceedingly great interest.

A Tragedy Uncovered.

Athens, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—This morning an old man, while working upon a piece of land in the southern portion of the city, dug up an old dress, which contained a dead body. The body showed signs of violence, and was pretty badly decayed. A negro woman named Lizzie Rowland, said she buried it at the instance of Hattie Webb, a white woman of this city. It seems as if the child was not born dead. Then, did the mother hire the negress to put it out of the way? The matter will be thoroughly sifted.

Governor Gordon Rides Down the Line Amid a Torrent of Rain-Entertained By the Ninth Battalion.

Augusta, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-The military of Georgia covered themselves with glory this evening, and Governor Gordon is more popular tonight than ever before, if that Many people in Atlanta are familiar with the Augusta exposition grounds. Those who are not can picture to themselves the largest exposition grounds and finest mile track in Georgia, the grand stand packed with 8,000 people, the race course lined with equipages of every kind, and the space within the circle of the race track occupied by twelve hundred soldiers, cavalry and infantry, on dress parade, the governor of the state and his staff passing them in review.

Just at this juncture imagine the hardest rain you ever saw falling in blinding sheets, with thunder and lightning at frequent intervals. Then behold the soldiers, drenched to the skin, go through all the drill and formalities of such an occasion just as though the sun was shining. Hear the United States artillery band playing "Dixie" with their horns half full of rain-water. See the soldiers marching in water nearly to their shee-tops. while the rain continues to pelt mercilessly upon them. See them form into battalions, and see Governor Gordon ride down in front of the long lines, hat in hand, and the rain pouring down on his bare head and drenching him to the skin, and you see the spectacle which was witnessed by thousands of people in Augusta this evening, and which will be long re-

Cheer after cheer greeted Governor Gordon at every turn, and the soldiers idolize him tonight. The scene was pronounced the most soldierly of the entire encampment.

Governor Gordon was the guest of the Ninth Georgia Battalion and Colonel Jones, at dinner at the encampment today. He was royally entertained, and though they are out of tin plates and drank from tin cups, the bill of fare was much better than soldiers usually enjoy. Governor Gordon is delighted with Camp Richmond, and the ovation given him.

The Graduating Exercises-The Largest Class Ever Graduating-The Events of Yesterday.

ATHENS, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-After a year of unprecedented prosperity, the State University has closed its doors until next sep-

It has been a year of hard and systematic work on the part of both professors and stu-dents, and rich results have flowed therefrom. It was the first year of Dr. Boggs' active ad-ministration of affairs, and its success has proven him to be an instructor and manager of the highest and best character.

At 11 o'clock Wednesday the chapel was perfectly thronged with human beings, and there was not standing room in the large and spacious hall. Georgia's chivalry and beauty, her brain and her purity had assembled to witness the graduating exercises of the Class

As they appeared, headed by the trustees and faculty, the house shook with cheers from the large audience. The class came in two by two and it took several minutes to seat them Seventy-three young graduates thus filed in and took their seats, the largest class that ever went from the halls of our alma mater.

The exercises were opened by prayer by the chancellor. The chancellor then introduced Mr. Frank E. Calloway, of LaGrange, who read an able essay upon "Jefferson and Ham-

Mr. J. R. L. Smith, of Flovilla, next entertained the audience with an essay on "The South and the Negro."

Mr. W. D. Ellis, Jr., of Atlanta, is a young man who acquitted himself handsomely, and of whom his native city may well feel proud. He speke upon "Anglo-Saxon Civilization."

Mr. F. C. Shackelford, of Jefferson, spoke on the subject of "Jefferson Davis," and received prolonged applause for his beautiful tribute to the south's dead chieftain.

Mr. J. B. Fitzgerald, of Lotus, Ga., spoke upon the "Lawyers' Mission," and described the duty of that profession in a charming manner.

Mr. J. C. Boone, of Gainesville, was the last aker, and spoke eloquently on the "New Expectancy now hung upon every one as Judge Emory Speer was introduced to deliver the sophomore medals. Judge Speer, in that eloquent and polished style for which he is so well known, proceeded style for which he is so well known, proceeded to deliver the medals. He gave some splendid advice to all the speakers, showing the advantages to be derived from the study of oratory, and closed by pointing each one to the story of the cross as their safest and best guide in future life. The judge then delivered the first medal for declamation to Mr. J. C. Blastragues of Zehulon, Ga. and the second medal ingame, of Zebulon, Ga., and the second medal to Mr. S. H. Sibley, of Union Point. The announcement was received with pro-longed applause.

Then came the closing scenes of all, when the chancellor stepped forward to deliver the diplomas to the stepped forward to deliver the diplomas to the graduates. Seventy-three diplomas to as many bright young men. Chancellor Boggs gave some eloquent, wise and pathetic utterances of advice as this seene came on. He told the boys of how the old institution loved them, and of how they should love her. He wished them all unbounded success in after life. He then handed out the diplomas, saying a word of cheer to each graduate as he presented him with his well-earned diploma. The following is the list of graduates and the degrees taken:

The Chancellor's Report.

The report of Chancellor Boggs, of the University of Georgia, considered by the board of trustees at this session here, is a document which shows up the university in fine style. It is well prepared and proclaims on its very face that the university is in possession of a chancellor of whom the state may well feel proud. The following is the substance of the

The year now nearing its close has been a season of prosperity and progress for the university. The health of the students and instructions have been with few exceptions good, and the work accomplished has been encouraging in a high degree.

aging in a high degree.
Under the head of attendance, Chancellor says: "The good conduct of the students dur-ing the year has often been commented on by citizens, and especially by such as are con-nected with the municipal government and thus know the facts intimately."

In the matter of troubles in secret fraterni-ties, the chancellor laid the facts before the board and afterwards stated to them that it wich the latter that the theoretic words as it is might be best to let the matter stand as it is

In regard to the faculty, he says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the zeal and ability with which the professors have performed every duty laid upon them. A more conscientious and laborious body it has never been my feature to meet."

been my fortune to meet."

In reference to the vacancy in the adjunct professorship, Dr. Boggs recommended Mr. W. D. Hooper, a young man of fine moral and intellectual character.

D. Hooper, a young man of fine moral and intellectual character.

Dr. Boggs pays a glowing tribute to Professor C. M. Strahan, as follows:

"Mr. Strahan has been for a number of years employed by the university in giving assistance in various departments. His thorough and symmetrical development enables him to do almost any work that may be needed. As a graduate and teacher he reflects honor upon his alma mater, to whose interests he is warmly devoted. His blameless Christian activity, social kindness and love of teaching young men, make him a professor whom we can not afford to lose. I do not believe that we can find his superior in the country."

In regard to the method of examinations at the university, perfect satisfaction was reported in regard to the plan adopted last year. It has had a salutary effect, and has, to a marked degree, prevented that obnoxious practice of "stuffing" for examinations.

It was also conclusively set forth that under

It was also conclusively set forth that under the present system of examinations the idlers were becoming weeded out, and that only the studious can remain at the university. Chan-cellor Boggs recommended a thorough reor-ganization of the State College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts.

and Mechanical Arts.
Dr. Jones's report on the farm was referred to, and it was recommended that it be confined next year.

benefit of the university, and that the needs of the institution be laid before the next general assembly in no uncertain manner.

In regard to religious exercises the report lis very fine. It says: "Immediately upon taking charge, the chapel services were resumed for all students at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The attendance has been good, and the attention and serious behavior have been very much improved. If only we had the means of warming the chapel in cold weather, it is believed that numbers of the citizens might be expected to attend. The lecture-room with its low ceiling often proves very uncomfortable for the audience when it is large.

"Daily morning prayers are held at 9 o'clock. Here, too, have the attention and behavior been greatly improved. By carefully selecting a portion of Scripture especially suited to young men, it is possible to inculcate the most salutary lessons.

"A Bible class for students on Sabhath morn."

young men, it is possible to inculcate the most salutary lessons.

"A Bible class for students on Sabbath morning has been well attended, and in the afternoon Professor Bocock had a class in the Greek New Testament, which drew together quite a number of students. The Friday night prayer meetings have been kept up by the students. Every effort will be made to foster religious life in the university. And in this I can safely count upon the sympathy and co-operation of the faculty, all of whom are members of some evangelical church, several being the acknowledged leaders of the churches."

Dr. Boggs then ends his report by recom-mending the graduating class for diplomas. The report is considered a forerunner of prosperity, as it shows a state of unprecedented prosperity in the university.

Johnson, of Barnesville, was introduced and delivered a fine address on the character of Christ. It was a fine address and highly appreciated by all present. On Tuesday night the leading entertainment of the week was given, which consisted entirely of two plays, "The Christmas Tree," and "Mary, Queen of Scots." These plays were well rendered and pronounced by all as a success. Indeed, the rendition of the parts would have been a credit to any amateurs of the country.

Today was commencement day proper. In the forenoon the advanced students delivered recitations, declamations, etc., and at 11 o'clock the commencement address was delivered by Colonel T. C. Nolen, of McDonough. Colonel Nolen is known far and wide as a chaste and beautiful speaker, and today he eclipsed his most happy efforts. We cannot, in this short article, begin to give him justice, but will say that for pure oratory, well-rounded sentences and beautiful expression it can have no equal.

Special mention should be made of Miss Rosa Thornton, of Monticello, who has the honor of being the first graduate of our pet Institution. For good deportment she has won a scholarship in the Wesleyan college, as offered by Dr. Bass on the occasion of our commencement one year ago. On a whole, the school has done well under the care of Professor W. C. Wright, president, and his assistants, Professors Kilpatrick and Woodward and Miss

MARSHALLVILLE, Ga., June 18.—[Special.]—
The approaching commencement exercises, beginning June 24, will be varied and entertaining. The department of music, conducted by Miss Sallie Sperry, will enliven the whole occasion, not only with classical but with popular airs. Mrs. Edwards will present the latest phase in physical training in drills, etc. Professor Charles Lane, in his "Lessons Not Found in Books" will bring down the house.

As a training school, it is one of the best in Georgia. It has more pupils abroad in colleges than any other institute of its patronage—four at Emory—all with speakers' places, two at LaGrange, two at the Technological, two at Salem, North Carolina, one each at Mercer and Poughkeepsie. It has also, by competitive examination, two Peabody scholarships at Nashville, the present incumbent, Miss Edwards, having taken the highest stand in a class of 150.

Miss Edwards, having taken the mignest stand in a class of 150.

The school has been under the continued principalship of Mr. J. W. Frederick for fitteen years, who has accepted a position on the corps of instruction in the Peabody normal at Salt Springs for the summer months. The school, in its new $5,000 house and thorough course of study, is prepared to continue some of the best school work in Georgia. Covington's Closing Exercises,

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR CORDELE. The Little City Insists on Justice in the Census. CORDELE, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—Mr. Simon P. Odom, who was appointed census enumerator for Cordele, has decided to give this city another chance. On the first day of June, he made Cordele a very hurried visit and secured some names, but after his departure it was discovered that a great many were left out.

Mr. Odom was informed of this fact, and yesterday wrote to one of our citizens, saying that he would be here again on the 24th instant, and begin a thorough canvass of the city. The people were very indignant over the apparent slight which Mr. Odom had them, and appreciate his kindness in agreeing to make another canvass.

Cordele will make a nice showing as to her population when every name has been secured. Guesses range from 2,000 to 3,000. A census is being taken by the city now.

Powder Springs is Growing.

Powder Springs, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]
The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway will shortly commence the erection of a new depot at this place. The old one is entirely inadequate for the present business. The amount of fertilizers sold here last season was more than five hundred tons, and the cotton receipts have run up to four thousand bales. There are eight business houses and one firm claims to have done a business of ninety thousand dollars last year. Two good hotels, besides boarding-houses, and the best water in the state. The leading paper, The Constitution, has one hundred weeklies taken from this office. Powder Springs is Growing.

EMORY COLLEGE.

THE CLOSE OF THE TERM AT

Improvements in Every Direction During the Past Year—Programmes For the Coming Exercises.

OXFORD, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—The spring term ended here Wednesday at 11 o'clock, and with it one of the most successful that Emory college has ever known. Owing to the energy and management of President W. A. Candler and his colleagues, the ollege is making rapid advances. There were enrolled this year 232 students, an increase of twenty-two over the number of last year. The general health of the students has been wonderfully good. Only one death has occurred during the whole year. The attendance and devotion to duty have been of unparalleled excellence, the average of the marks have been higher this year than ever before, The campus has been improved, the library enlarged by five hundred volumes and will be made still larger this summer. The endowment has been increased by over $105,000 and a fund raised by the alumni of the institution for the purpose of establishing a chair of applied mathematics in memory of Professor G W. W. Stone, is rapidly reaching such proportions as to warrant the prediction that it will be established next year.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION The Young Men's Christian association is firmly fixed, with a membership of ninety. It with assistance of the college, has equipped a gymnasium costing, in all, about $7,300. And next year it will be under the control of a physical director. The baseball club is well organized, and has, at an expense of $200, made a good ground. They will play their first game with foreign club at Madison.

It has long been the boast of Emory that no boy was ever turned away from its gates on account of poverty. Though she does not give free tuition, as do the other two colleges n the state, still, by means of the loan fund, in the state, still, by means of the loan fund, she has assisted twenty-six young men to pay their way through this year. Altogether, she is on a boom.

This commencement will be the largest ever held. There will be more inducements offered, and consequently a larger attendance. THE BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS.
Then follows the baccalaureate address by Dr. Warren A. Candler and the delivery of Abbott medal, and diplomas.

In the afternoon Dr. A. C. Smith, of Spartanburg, S. C., recently elected missionary secretary of the M. E. Church, south, will deliver an address before the literary societies—Few and Phi Gamma.

This commencement, with its exercises, promises to be the best in many years, educative to the heart and head. With reduced railroad rates and easy access, there will certainly be a large crowd here during the next week. Such speakers as Fitzgerald, Haygood, Jones, Lamar and Hoke Smith will have a large effect in making the town fuller than usual on such occasions. But there is room for all. Oxford's hospitality is proverbial, and every one coming will receive a hearty welcome.

OUR PRAISES SUNG

By the Fair and Accomplished Daughters of GRIFFIN, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—THE CONSTITUTION scored the fairest victory of them all today.

Perhaps there never was just such an incident, and just such an occasion.

The great Central system was conveying to their respective homes about twenty-five as attractive and accomplished young ladies from Wesleyan halls as ever graced the social circle.
There were joyous hearts, merry voices, beaming faces, diffusing a glorious sunshine throughout the car—a scene intensified by a thoughtful act on the part of THE CONSTITU-

One of the representatives of that paper chanced to be returning from southwest Georgia, where he had been favored with a number of the finest watermelons of the season, and, in the name of THE CONSTITUTION, he presented this brilliant array of young womanood with a delicious melon treat, It was this that caused the people at the stopping-places, as well as the balance of the car, to applaud the unbounded merriment that possessed these beautiful daughters of Wes-THE CONSTITUTION scored a double victory in winning the favor of these noble represent-atives of the future womanhood of the south.

LOOKING AT THE FRUIT.

The Government Specialist Conducting His Investigation Around Griffin.
GRIFFIN, Ga., 'June 19.—[Special.]—Everet F. Smith, specialist from the bureau of agriculture at Washington, D. C., arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. Mr. Smith came at the instance of the fruitgrowers offthis section to investigate the causes that have led to blight in the frifft. He has been out in the fruit region today, and was seen by THE Constitution reporter at his hotel tonight and asked what his investigation had revealed. "I can give you nothing official or authoritive. My investigation is yet too young in your section. That your fruit is infected with fungi is apparent, but further than this I cannot speak under ten days." Mr. Smith is confident there is a remedy for the ills that annually befall our fruits, and we will soon be put in possession of disinfectants that will materially aid us. It is interesting to listen to Mr. Smith tell the progress and benefit his department has made in the past four years. From a desk in one corner they have been given comfortable quarters and now have six men in the department, studying the ills of, and remedies for, the vegetable kingdom, just as men study in the same way for the animal kingdom. He has promised to give the people the benefit of his linvestiga-tions through the press, and until they are completed we must wait.

A DIFFICULT SURGICAL OPERATION Performed on N. A. Baldwin, Who Was Wounded in Brunswick.

CUTHBERT, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-Mr. Willie O. Baldwin, the young gentleman who so seriously shot himself in a difficulty in Brunswick, had an operation performed upon his wounded leg today by Dr. Branham, of Brunswick, assisted by Drs. Bridgeman and Harmon, of Shellman; Dr. Rogers, of Coleman, and Dr. Toomb, of this place.

The operation was to arrest aneurism, which had been noticeable for several weeks in the large artery of the leg. For more than an hour the patient lay under the surgeon's knife. The ball entered the thigh of the left leg, little to the right, and near the upper joint, ranging down and lodging on the opposite side near the knee. In its course downward it followed the large artery some distance, and here the trouble lay. For six or eight inches the surgeons laid the flesh open, and catching up the artery securely fastened is and then stitched up the wound. The operation was an exceedingly dangeron one, and when it was over Dr. Branhan, who is quite a young man, was warmly congratu-lated by the attendant physicians. Mr. Baldwin is in a critical condition, and has been for some time, but tonight is resting quietly, and hopes are expressed by the doctors that he now recover rapidly. Dr. Baldwin, the father of Willis, is himself a prom-inent physician, and expressed himself as highly pleased at the operation. He was present and witnessed it throughout.

THE MURDERER CAUGHT.

After Three Years of Liberty He is Brought to Time. ALBANY, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—Sam Snealling, charged with a double murder in Randolph county, was arrested by Marshal Westbrook last night. Westbrook was describing him to a negro when he walked by. When accosted he tried to draw his nistol but was covered by the marshal, who caught his hand while the negro pulled his weapon from his pocket. He will be taken to Cuthbert for identification today. Three years ago he killed another negro. The deputy sheriff with a posse traced him to a house. As he entered the negro fired twice, killing the wounded officer to die alone with his desper ate murderer. A reward of five hundred dol lars for his arrest has been offered. . Dan Had Enough of It.

Damaging Rains. GRIFFIN, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—One of the most disastrous rains, within the memory of the oldest inhabitants of that section, fell in the upper second district of Pike county yester-day afternoon. Mill and fish ponds succumbed to the floods, and the damage to crops is in-calculable. Lands were never known to be so badly washed before.

Opelika Mineral Water, at Opelika, Ala., Is

Effecting Wonderful Cures. This water, discovered several months ago, is one of the finest waters ever offered to the public. It is found upon careful analysis to contain curative properties that are simply marvelous. It is a sure cure for indigestion, impure blood, and all kindred diseases. LOUIS CHERRY, ESQ.:

DEAR SIR—It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of the Opelika Mineral Water. For three years I had blood poison and rheumatism. My hands were almost a solid sore from impure blood. After using the water for three weeks my hands are well and my health is better than for years. Dr. Lupton, the State Chemist, who amalyzed this water, told me it was the best medicinal water he ever analyzed. If this testimonial can be of use to you, you can use it. I am seventy-four years old, and this water is the best blood purifier I ever saw. It will give you an appetite when everything else fails.

OPELIKA, Ala., Jqne 12, 1890.

Louis Cherry, Esq.:

I came to Opelika on a business matter March 18th, 1890. I was in a low state of health; myaystem had lost its tone and spring. I was enervated, almost prostrated, by long continued sickness. I had visited nearly every watering place in the United States in search of lost health, but I searched in vain for that priceless boon. I heard frequent mention made of the Opelika mineral water. I was listless and indifferent to the praises bestowed on it at first. I thought I would try it. When I began to use it I weighed 150 pounds; now I weigh leif pounds. My health is completely restored. I have been in nearly every state in the union. I have found no water equal to it as a means of restoring the appetite, and as an agent in the upbnidding of a wasted system. My opposition at first stubborn, was forced to yield to the overwhelming power of the testimony furnished by its use. Truly, ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 20, 1890. Unknown Horrors.

Millions of people are thinking of the terrors and tortures suffered by the poor fellows shut up in the burning Farm Hill

What days and nights of unutterable horror they must have passed down there in the darkness of that gloomy cavern!

They were rough men, born to lead lives of toil; but some of them loved and were beloved by wives and children and sweethearts. Life was as sweet to them as it is to the curled darlings who wear purple and fine linen. Nor did they live in vain. Their honest hearts and strong arms made the fortunes of others, and guarded the peaceful homes that encircled the mine. Their sober industry and thrift stood like a stone wall between the lawless and law-abiding. In their humble and simple way they blessed and brightened the busy life around them. These men, suddenly cut off from the outer world, with its sunshine and flowers and singing birds, must have felt a bitterness of despair that no word or cry of anguish can express. The pitiless wall shut them in, and the still more pitiless vapors of the burning gas poisoned the air.

Crouching down to get relief from the cooler earth, the victims fought for life until the last. What were their thoughts and hopes and delirious fancies? We can never know. The wives, waiting in their little cottages to hear the glad shouts announcing the rescue of their loved ones, knew that the sufferers were thinking of them, and some smiled tenderly when they thought of the last kiss when their husbands went to their work, and others wept when they remembered that their last words were full of anger and com-

Meanwhile the hours and days dragged along, and the helpless ones in the mine with their faces buried in the earth made their peace with God. Some wore peaceful and pleasant faces. They had been unable to think of any wrong done by them to any living creature. Some sobbed and frowned and cried out wildly. They were tormented by the recollections of the past. One had left his family without money and in debt. Another had spoken brutal words to his wife on that last morning, and one had dealt a cruel blow to his little child.

There was enough to think of, these rough men found, as they waited for deliverance or death. But in the darkness and desolation of that prison-house there were some white souls calmly preparing for their flight.

This little glimpse we may have of the no more. The grim and ghastly realities of that chamber of death are mercifully hidden from our gaze. And, more mercifully still, are they veiled from the view of the women and children who stand in their little homes in that Pennsylvania village, wringing their nerveless hands, and wondering whether the Almighty has forsaken and forgotten

Business.

While Wall street is going through a period the securities of over-capitalized industrial enterprises, general prosperity prevails throughout the country.

The volume of business is remarkably large. Railway earnings for twelve months of the current year show an increase of more than twelve per cent over last year's record. Again, the exchanges of the clearing-houses outside of New York show that the volume of traffic is 12.5 per cent greater than that of last year. An increase of one-eighth in one year over any year preceding means genuine Failures have not been unusually numerous nor for extraordinary amounts. Our leading industries are advancing, and the production of pig iron, the best test of all, is greater than ever this year, and the capacity of furnaces exceeds by thirty per cent that of last year. There is no increase in the stock of unsold pig iron, and prices have strengthened. Other industries show a similar state of activity.

The situation is so promising that we can afford to view the depression in Wall street with equanimity. Speculation in securities is a matter apart from the general business of the country.

The Georgia Campaign.

The New York Sun, commenting on THE Constitution's figures from the tax-books of Georgia, relative to the condition of the farmers of the state, makes these remarks:

The Georgia farmers are, in fact, doing well; better, on the average, than men in other vocations. What reason, then, is there for the excitement of the Farmers' alliance. Why do the Georgia farmers, instead of being grateful that they are better off than other men, demand newfangled legislation to improve their condition? Why have they found it necessary to gobble up. Why have they found it necessary to gobble up the democratic party of Georgia?

We wonder if the Georgia farmers will be as uccessful in politics as they are in farming. Now, Mr. Dana is a great editor, and it is a pity that he can not recognize the fact that the democratic party in Georgia is all right. There is no excitement, so far as we know, in the Farmers' alliance, nor is the alliance running any candidates. Mr. Dana has probably been misled by the confusion and the turmoil in other states, where ambitious men have made an effort to use the alliance to further their designs.

Mr. Dana appears to think that there is an effort on the part of the farmers of Georgia to destroy the democratic party, and it is this impression we desire to correct. There is not a candidate before the people today for any office but is willing to submit his claim to the democratic convention and stand on the platform of principles that will there

That some of the candidates are farmers and alliancemen is true, but that is no objection. It sometimes happens that candidates are merchants, or lawyers, or schoolteachers, but there is no complaint on that score, and there is no reason why farmers should not be candidates.

1880 the forest area burned was 10,274,069 HARRIS FOR CONGRESS.

These are startling figures, but the insti-

As to the success of farmers in politics, we. may say that all that is best and purest in Georgia statesmanship bears personal and special relationship to the farm. All our great men have either been farmers or were bred on the farm.

We may say to the Sun that the democratic party in Georgia is solid-united and

The Incubation of Disease.

It is reported in some of the newspapers that the disease which has broken out in Spain, and which has been traced to the upturning of the soil of the streets, may or may not be cholera. We do not believe that the name is important. It frequently happens-and it must necessarily happen-that the able physician makes a diagnosis of the disease after his patient is cold and stiff. Death is not only a great leveler, as the poets say, but it is the great solver of prob-

ems. It explains a good many things. There is this additional fact that ought to be nursed and made much of in a city-not Atlanta, perhaps, but in a city where the authorities are fixed in the air, and the sanitary conditions are not as complete as in the regions where night-carts go about in the day-time. That fact is this-that death need not be the result of yellow fever to be mortal. It is immaterial to the dead man what he died of.

The Spanish disease—the trouble that came from the upturning of the soil of the streets-may not be cholera, but the fact that it is deadly as cholera ought to count for something. We do not believe that cholera would result from the upturning of the soil of Whitehall street, but we would not advise other cities to play with the lives of their citizens in making these summer excavations, even though all the sanitariums unite to endorse the upheaval. It is no doubt necessary to excavate the streets at rare intervals, but these intervals should be made to fall in the warm period that lies between fall and winter. In the spring and summer such work is deadly in every town except Atlanta, where cholera and yellow fever cannot come, and where death from other diseases is a mere matter of moonshine.

A Celebrated Case.

The supreme court of Tennessee has just rendered a decision in a case which is likely to attract attention. The case is that of the State vs. R. M. King, a member of the Seventh-Day Adventist church, who was arraigned on the charge of working on the Sabbath day. His case was appealed from the circuit court, where a heavy fine had been imposed on him, and now that the state court has decided against him, he will carry his complaint before the supreme court of the United States.

The case is a most interesting one. It eems that Mr. King, who is a farmer, was indicted for quietly working on his own premises, "not in sight of any place of public worship;" he disturbed no one by the work, but it was held that "the moral sense" of the people had sustained a shock by seeing work done on the Sabbath, and this statement was made against him at his trial.

But this is not all: The man was first carried before a justice of the peace; his case was heard, and the justice imposed a unknown horrors of the Farm Hill mine, but fine of three dollars and costs, amounting in all to about twelve dollars. For the same offense he was afterwards in dicted by the grand jury and fined in the sum of seventy-five dollars.

The peculiar sect to which Mr. King be longs observes Saturday as the Sabbath; hence the fact of his working on the first day of the week, and thereby offending the high moral sense of the good people in his neighborhood, and it seems that there is an association in Tennessee which is pledged to the prosecution of all violators of the Sunday has fallen under the ban of its displeasure.

He is evidently traveling in hard lines, and he will be in a bad way if the United States supreme court fails to give him the relief asked. Whatever the merits of the case may be, Mr. King can count on public sympathy, for from the statement of it in the Tennessee newspaper he appears to be a sadly persecuted man, and the history of the case thus far smacks of injustice and a religious intolerance which is novel in its Puritan severity. The man appears to have been dragged from court to court and jury to jury, subjected to great pecuniary expense, fined twice for the same offense-if an act like his, committed in accordance with the rules of his sect, can indeed be called an

The case is a peculiar one, and the final decision of the United States supreme court will be awaited with great interest.

The Destruction of Forests.

A correspondent requests us to give some information regarding the rate of destruction of our forests.

From time to time we have discussed this matter in a general way. It will be a year or so before the figures of the present census get into print, and the only statistics now available are those of the census of 1880. During the year referred to eleven Billion feet of pine were cut in the United States and it was asserted that such a rate of con sumption would exhaust our pine forests in another ten years. However, since that time fewer trees' have been cut, and an effort has been made to plant new trees on a large scale. The American Forestry congress has been at work in earnest awakening public sentiment to the importance of protecting our timber. The report of this association in 1885 estimated the value of the wood annually converted into lumber at $233,367,729, and of that consumed for domestic purposes each year at $321,962,373. Railroad ties alone consume an immense amount of timber. The report for 1885 said that there were then in use in this country 150,000 miles of railway, which required 396,000,000 ties, or the wood supplied by 3,390,000 acres, an area larger than that of the states of Rhode Island and Connecticut. Estimating that these ties have to be re newed once in seven years, the forest must annually supply the timber of 565,714 acres. As it takes thirty years to grow a tree of the proper dimensions for ties, it will require 16,971,420 acres of woodland to be kept constantly growing this timber for railroad purposes. This is an area larger than that of the states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, or four per cent of all the woodland of the country. Destruction also comes from fires and browsing animals. In tution of Arbor Day in many states, and the tree-planting regulations for the settlers of government lands, have done something in the way of reforesting. A casual glance at these statistics will show that the matter of guarding our timber supply and providing its renewal cannot receive too much of our thoughtful attention.

THE senate has tampered with Mr. William McKinley's tariff hill until he wouldn't know it if he met it in the road. This is another in-bigger than the man.

MR. REED proposes to allow the new silver bill to be discussed in the house. This shows that even a great man can be considerate when he tries to be. We have been under the impression that Mr. Reed would put the silver bill in his pocket and not allow it to be acted on in the house. This is the only way he can save the republican party.

The republican organs are now bragging because Speaker Reed is bold enough to play the fool. When the republican party comes up with its tail cut off in the fall elections Reed will not be such a hero.

IN THE matter of keeping new public buildings out of democratic towns Mr. Harrison is a great success. The silver business is another matter. He will shortly be able to veto the entire republican party. THERE is one of the rights of the negroes

Mr. Speaker Reed. Mr. Harrison, small as he is, will have to toe the mark. What the democrats want now is a veto of

The entire system by which men are chosen for congress is now, and always has been, different at the south. There it is an aristocracy, not of halls and dollars, but of brains. Its ablest men are sent to the front and kept there until their power grows into a towering inducace in legislation. Hon. Henry R. Harris Announces to the Pe ple of the Fourth District His Candidacy For Congress.

GREENVILLE, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-The executive committee for the fourth congressional district having fixed the time for the meeting of the nominating convention, the political campaign in the district is now beginning to warm up.

The following card will appear in the Vindicator of tomorrow:

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT: In response to solicitations of numerous friends and former constituents of the fourth congressional district. I hereby announce myself a candidate for the fiftyand congress, subject to the action of the dem oeratic party.

The limited time intervening between this and the 30th of July, the date fixed by the executive committee for holding the nominating convention, I regret to say, preclude, the possibility of my making such a personal canvass of the dis-trict as I would otherwise make, and I am, therefore, obliged to rely upon the efforts of my friends in my behalf, assuring them that I will do all that I can under the circumstances. My record as your honored representative for eight years in congress is familiar to most and sible to all of the voters of the district. By this record I am willing to be judged, and upon it I am willing to stand or fall.

H. R. HARRIS. not believe that any melon-grower ever wrote the article published in the Journal, because I do not think that there is a grower in the state who believes it. I have stated to the growers very plainly that I did have a big ax to grind, because I believed that, with proper distribution of the melon crop, that I, and they, too, would get double the price-for their crops per car load this year that they did last year, and f still think so. I virtually lost forty car loads of my own crop lastiyear, and I will feel that I have ground my ax pretty well if I make that unmber of cars bring me what they should, when they did not bring me anything last year. Now, as to the railroad part of it. My son has been working with the Louisville and Nash-ville railroad for nearly two years, but has had a flattering offer from another road at the same wages that the Louisville and Nashville road is paying, but his relations with his superiors had been so pleasant that he did not choose to make a change. If "A Grower," Mr. Phillips, or Mr. anybody else, says that I am getting $5 per car from the railroads for playing "middle man" they are lars and the truth is not in them. If I am correctly informed, Mr. Phillips has been middle man to whom he gives $5 or some other sun per car, and I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion the grower pays it every time, and for that reason they have resolved not to ship to any house who has a "middle man," when may account for Mr. Phillips being so badly "in the soup how." Very respectfully, J. R. Foanesten.

POLLING THE PEOPLE IN POLK. How They Stand Upon the Gubernatorial Race.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.]-Your correspondent this afternoon on the streets approached seventy citizens indiscriminately and asked them as to their choice for governor, with the following result: For Northen, 22; for Hardeman, 17; non-commit tal, 31. It is but fair to add that it was late in the afternoon-about 6 o'clock-and most of the farmers had gone home.

Polk county is very much divided on the sub-treasury matter and governmental control of the railroads. Many conservative alliancemen are opposed to these measures. This being the home of Hon. R. W. ganizatin. We learn that two hundred and ninety-seven pupils have been enrolled, and the average attendance has been one hundred and ninety-six. This is a considerable increase, both as to the enrollment and average attendance over any previous year. It is an admitted fact that no teacher has the faculty of pleasing everybody, but if the professor would accept, and it was left to a vote of the patrons of the school, he would be re-elected by a very large majority. But alas, the teachers are not elected that way in West End, but by a board of trustees, who are elected by two members of the council and one private citizen, who are liable sometimes to elect members on the board who neither own a dollar's worth of stock in the academy nor have a single child in the school. This may be legitimate, but does not seem exactly fair to many of the stockholders and patrons, who ran their hands deep down into their pockets to erect the school building.

Unless the town will purchase the eraire stock, it would be better if each stockholder, regardless of the number of shares they hold, were entitled to one vote only in the election of trustees.

This would place the matter in the hands and under the control of the actual stockholders, for The farmers have been busy and every one seems to be satisfied with the situation.

The Farmers' alliance is taking a hand in a quiet way. The members of this organization are doing a lot of thinking, and when the elections take place they will doubtless be ready with some good man for each place. The Warren County Democrats

WARRENTON, Ga., June 19 .- [Special.] -The ounty can be heard from all sides, and candidates are popping up from all parts of the county. Should the colonel decide to run, he will make it warm for the boys, as to run, he will make it warm to the boys, as he is very popular all over the county. The congressional race is beginning to get some life into it, and you can hear it discussed on all sides. Mr. Statson is very popular in this county, but Major Barnes has some true and tried friends here that will make it hot for the little statesman. This county will, no doubt, co for W. J. EDITORS CONSTITUTION: In that department of This Constitution: headed "Political News in the State," there appeared a few days ago this puragraph: "The congressional race looks as if it will end like this: Lawson-Putnam, 4: Morgan, 2; Hancock, 4. Colley-Wilkes, 4: Elbert, 2; Madison, 2; Oconee, 2; Ciarke, 2. Olivfe-Oglethorpe, 4; Greene, 4; Hart, 2; Franklin, 2." Of course you refer to the race in the eighth district, and the above is apparently a reprint from soine newspaper in the district. It is difficult to comprehend how any one could really limake such a stitement in good faith. Let me ask by what an thority Greene county is placed in the Olive column, and why it is taken for granted that Mr. Olive will carry Hart and Franklin? Again, since when was i. apparent that Mr. Col ev would carry Clarke, Oconee and Ebert? Now. Mr. Editor, I have studied the situation in the eighth district quite carefully, and, if you please, I will tell you one thing, upon which you may rely, viz. that Judge Lawson will carry Putnam, Greene, Morgan and Hancock counties, with their fourteen votes. This will leave only four more votes to be gained by him to secure a nomination. He has an equal chance with any other candidate of carrying Clarke, Oconee and Elbert, and recently it was stated by correspondents of the Athens Banner, who were instructed to find out that he would carry Hart and Franklin. Instead, therefore, of going into the convention with ten votes, he is almost certain to go into it with enough to nominate. The People Meet.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., June 19.—[Special.]—A mass-meeting of the citizens was called in the court-house to discuss municipal affairs and looking to the adjustment of the strife engendered by the contest over the offices of mayor and aldermen. It looked at first like trouble would arise, but things became quiet, and a committee of six were instructed to wait upon the candidates and see if they would not end the whole matter by withdrawing and allowing a new election. Both gentlemen who had run for mayor resigned.

Augusta, Ga., June 19.-[Special.]-The card of Hon. Thomas E. Watson, in the Sunday Constitution, in reply to Judge H. D. D. Twiggs's speech at Waynesboro, has called out a correspondence between Messrs. Twiggs and

THE PARTIES INVOLVED.

It is understood that Mr. Eugene F. Verdery, Judge Twiggs's law partner, and Major Charles E. McGregor have acted as the friends of the principals in the correspondence. It is reliably stated tonight by a gentleman in position to know that nothing has passed in the character of a challenge.

THE DEMAND MADE. Judge Twiggs's first note demanded a retraction from Mr. Watson of his card in Sunday's Constitution.

Mr. Watson declined to withdraw any language he had used until Judge Twigge should first withdraw and apologize for the language used in his Waynesboro speech abou Watson.

A PLEA FOR TWIGGS.

In this letter Mr. Watson took occasion to put Judge Twiggs on notice that he was not a disciple of the code and didn't believe in duelling, but whether this was from principle or fear, Judge Twiggs might form his conclusions and act accordingly.

TWIGGS COMES BACK.

Judge Twiggs's second note quoted the language used by him about Watson in his speech in Waynesboro, and stated that he saw nothing in the language insulting to Mr. Watson, or demanding his retraction or apology, but repeated his demand on Watson for a withdrawal of his language in Sunday's Con-STITUTION.

WATSON IS TART. To this Mr. Watson replied that he differed with Judge Twiggs about the character and effect of his language in Waynesboro, and considered that it justified his language in THE CONSTITUTION. He declined, therefore, to make any retraction until Twiggs should first withdraw his insulting language, used in his Waynesboro speech.

THERE THE MATTER STANDS.

No further correspondence has passed, and neither side has made any retractions. Mr. Watson was in Augusta this evening, and so was Major McGregor, but nothing took place in connection with this affair. THEY HAVE SCATTERED. Mr. Watson left for Louisville tonight, where he speaks tomorrow, and Major Mc-Gregor returns home tomorrow, after having visited Camp Richmond and witnessed the

The military feature of the exposition will be the greatest of them all.

The military committee has fixed things. Realizing the very great interest now manifested in military affairs all over the country, the exposition company has decided to spare neither efforts nor expense to make the military displays and contests special features. The military committee held a meeting in the exposition office yesterday, and has arranged the full programme for the week. The committee also revised the list of prizes as had been previously arranged and has taken every step necessary to make the exposition drills the very best to be seen in America. The military display will be the greatest ever witnessed in the republic.

More than $7,500 will be offered in prizes

An enormous and realistic sham battle will be given in which the crack companies of America will engage.

Military judges detailed from the United States army will preside over the contests.

Everything about the military week will be The List of Prizes.

The following is the complete list of prizes as revised by the military committee yester-

In the squad drills any command may enter more than one squad of eight if they desire, provided they be commanded by a different commissioned officer.

Besides these prizes many other smaller ones, such as medals, etc., will be arranged later.

Rules for the Drills.

Rules for the Drills. Following are the rules governing the drills, both state and interstate.

INTERSTATE INFANTRY COMPANIES.

1. Companies entering the contest must belong to the volunteer forces of their state.

2. They must have twenty-four files, two guides, and three commissioned offices, all of which must ave been regularly enlisted not less than thirty hays before the drill.

3. All companies will be required to drill in their full dress uniforms.

4. The programme may embrace any movement in the School of the Soldier or the School of the Company, excluding "bayonet exercise" and "skirmish drill."

in the School of the Soldier or the School of the Company, excluding "bayonet exercise" and "skirnish drill."

5. The judges will be competent United States army ofheers, detailed for that purpose.

6. The programme for interstate companies will be handed commanding officers, forty-five minutes before their time to drill, and no member of any company will be allowed to witness the drill of companies prior to their own, competing in their own arms or class.

7. Commanding officers must pledge themselves neither to give or receive any information relative to contents of programme until drill is over; on completion of programme the captain shall return same to the senior judge.

8. All companies will be drilled in strict accordance with Upton's Revised Tactics.

9. The score of each company, with the percentage of each movement, together with the criticisms of the board of judges, will be published immediately after the award of prizes.

10. Commands must report ten minutes before their time to drill, "rain or shine;" those failing to do so will forfeit their right to compete.

11. All companies competing for prizes will be required to participate in the sham battle, immediately after which prizes will be awarded.

12. All companies will drill in such order as may be determined by lot, each commander drawing his number in presence of the judges.

STATE INFANTRY COMPANIES.

Rules governing the state contest will be sixteen files, two guides and three commissioned officers, and the programme will be mailed to each company entering this class ten days prior to the commencement of the drill.

Any company belonging to the volunteer forces of the state of Georgia may compete in this class, except the Gate City Guard and the Atlanta Rifles, of Atlanta, Ga., and the Southern Cadets, of Macon, Ga.

The Exposition Circular.

The Exposition company has sent out a circular letter announcing the special military attractions of the exposition.

The managers have been receiving numerous letters of inquiry from the best companies all over the country asking about the drills at the exposition, and, if signs count for aught, there will be the greatest array of soldiers on the grounds next fall that was ever known to gather on any southern drill

Military week begins on Monday, October 20th, and will continue until October 24th, ending with the sham battle.

The military companies of Atlanta will begin to drill in the near future for the prize contests, and it may be safely expected that there will be some excellent drilling at the

WHAT ATLANTA TALKS ABOUT

The census man is the much-discussed just now. Everybody talks about him and wonders about his work.

While we are given to understand that the Atlanta census will be full and complete and that it may, perhaps, surprise us, let us not be too hopeful. The fact is, the official census always falls far below the expectations of even the mildly enthusiastic citizen. That is true of every city, and it is safe to expect that it will be the case here in Atlanta. When the official results are sent out from Washington there will be, from Maine to Texas, from Bellingham bay, in the new state of Washington, to the Florida keys, the grandest kick ever known to this great continent.

Nobody will be satisfied-it is in the natural order of things that they should not be, for the census is bound to fall short of what we expect it to be. We can only grin and bear it.

But there is a question whether the official census is the best and truest enumeration of the people of a city. You hear many object tions raised by the people who discuss the question, and though the count here in Atlanta may have been, and doubtless has been, a careful one, the people generally haven't every confidence in the result.

common objection is that the time allowed for the census-taking is too short, and the number of enumerators too small. "They cannot possibly do the work theroughly," urges one citizen. "They will doubtless do their one citizen. "They will doubtless do their best, but it is a physical impossibility for them to cover the territory." That objection, however, is not born out by the reports from the census headquarters where many of the enumerators report having covered the territory allotted to them, and it may be that the work has been thoroughly done.

"I believe the directory count is the best," said one of the party of gentlemen who discussed the question on a Fulton electric car yesterday, "for the reason that the greatest care is taken in its preparation, and the one Mr. Saunders has given Atlanta is wonderfully accurate. The directory men know that any omission in their lists will be noticed, and they are, therefore, as careful as it is possible for men to be."

"But there is one thing," interposed a third speaker, "with which directory men and cen-sus men have to contend here in the south, and that is the antipathy of the negro to being put upon any list. In the mind of the average negro, the question of taxation looms up most prominently. Now, I have eight ap most prominently. Now, I have eight negroes in my employ. To my certain knowl-edge not more than one or two of them have been taken in the census, and you can't get them to send in their names, as they are afraid to do so, and believes that this means to get on the tax lists. They don't want to be taxed."

Then somebody suggested that many young men who room over stores and in business blocks are likely to be missed, for the reason that their rooms are closed in the day and there is nothing to indicate their whereab "And the drummers who are out of the city -will they be counted?" asked the one who

"The only thing we can do is to wait and see," was the philosophical rejoinder that came from the head of the car, and everybody began talking politics.

Another congressional rumor rose above the surface yesterday to the effect that Hon. John S. Candler, the well-known young solicitor of the Stone Mountain circuit, would be urged to enter the field against Messrs. Stewart and Livingston. Colonel Candler returned from New York yesterday after an absence of several weeks, and was approached by several friends on the subject. Should he make the race he could of course carry DeKalb county. and his friends are of the opinion that his long residence in Fulton and his attachments here would give this county to him.

It may be that the rumor of his candidacy will assume realistic proportions.

The people of the fifth ward are becoming aroused on the street railway question. One prominent fifth-warder turned his telephone loose on THE CONSTITUTION office last night, and among other things said:

"We don't care who gets Luckie street, but we do want the line when it is built to run beyond Jones avenue. It ought to come as far as the Technological school at least. What we people most need is increased facilities out in this end of the ward. The travel is so heavy, morning and night, that the Marietta street cars are very badly crowded—so badly that we cannot get anything like the accommodations we ought to have. We would pre-fer electric cars, but we won't be particular if we are only given quick and comfortable trans-portation. We need that badly."

FROM OUR NOTEBOOKS.

Dr. Barrett.—Rev. Dr. R. S. Barrett has returned from Tallulah completely restored. He will be ready to accompany his party of excursionists to Europe at the appointed time. Shaking Hands.—M. Samuel Taliaferro was in the city yesterday, and seemed to feel very hope-ful in regard to his election as one of the repre-sentatives from Fulton county.

A Strange Experience.—Yesterday morning Constable Will Williams went to summon jurors, and out of twenty-one names he found nineteen excuses, "dead, legally exempt and moved away."

Still Improving.—Yesterday Mr. J. S. Holliday, Jr., received a letter from his father, Dr. J. S. Holliday, containing the very encouraging news that the latter is still improving, and will soon be enjoying his accustomed robust health.

Their Next Convention.—The next meeting of the Southeastern Tariff association will be held at Greenbriar White Sulphur Springs, in Virginia. Several delegations from Georgia will attend, combining business with pleasure, and remaining some time at that delightful resort.

Home Again.—C. A. Downing, of Faltimere, Md., is registered at the Markham. Mr. Downing is an old Georgia boy, but has been living in Faltimore for the past twenty years. This is his first visit south since moving to the monumental city.

Dr. Boring Better.—Dr. J. M. Boring is in a fair way to recover his usual good health. Yesterday he was so much better that he was able to be about the house, and his family are sanguine of his early restoration. Mrs. Boring, who has also been quite iii, was much better yesterday.

A Dumage Suit.—Mr. C. T. Ladson, in behalf of Mrs. H. M. Powell, has filed a suit for $10,000 damages against the Metropolitan Street Railway company. She claims that while out driving with friends she was run over by the dumny engine and so badly hurt that her injuries will be permanent.

Analyting the Water.—An announcement from the board of health states that the people of Atlanta will have an opportunity to have their well water analyzed and tessed. This is a wise comes, and should be pursued by every citizen. The announcement of the board appears in today's Constitution.

ermanic Board.-The board of aldermen The Aderman Board.—The board of altermen convened in regular session yesterday afternoon. The full board was in attendance. The board concurred in several sewer appropriations passed by the council Monday. The action of the council in increasing the salary of Mr. Charles Keith, one of the tax assessors, to $1,400 a year, was concurred in.

The Golden Chain.—Mr. W. Mickleberry returned from Elberton vesterday, after having organized a lodge of the Golden Chain, consisting of forty members, numbering among them the most prominent men of the town. Colonel Thomas Swift, of the governor's staff, was elected commander, and the lodge begins work under the most favorable ausnices.

Assistant State Geologist.—President E. T. Whatley, late of the Hearn institute, Cave Spring, who has been appointed by the governor assistant state geologist, has arrived in the city and will enter on the discharge of his duties the late of July. President Whatley is a graduate of the State university, graduating in the class of 1886 with distinction, and being a young man of talent and energy, he will doubtless discharge the duties of assistant state geologist with credit to himself and the state.

A Contract in Louisville.—The Ruttan Manufacturing company, south, successors to F. M. Hight & Co., closed yesterday a contract to furnish the Ruttan-Smead system of heating and ventilation for the new public school at Louisville, Ky.. Mr. F. M. Hight is president and Colonel E. K. Chamberlin vice-president of the new company, which has a capital stock of $300,000.

Military Week at the Exposition.—The committee on military matters will hold a meeting in the office of the exposition coupany for the purpose of arranging definitely the programme of drills for military week at the exposition. The intention of the committee is to make the military feature the biggest of the whole exposition. Captain Spencer has received numerous letters from the best companies in the country asking about the drills, and he is satisfied that they will all come to the exposition.

Trustees of the Confederate Home.—A meeting of the board of trustees of the Confederate Home was held vesterday afternoon at the capitol. There were present: Hon. W. L. Calhoun, president; Hén. Thos. F. Massengale, of Norwood: Major M. C. Kiser, Mr. S. M. Imman, and Secretary of State General Cook.

The business was of a routine nature, the board merely confirming the steps taken by the building committee in the details of construction.

It was decided not to adopt any rules yet governing the admission of inmates. This was donbecause it cannot be determined how just how much endowment the home may expect. It is the intention of the trustees to ask state support at the lends of the next legislature, but as the outcome of this is uncertain, no regulations can be franced now for the admission of applicants.

They Have a Name.

They Have a Name.

I Last night after the regular practice by the triple quartette of young men under the direction of Mr. S. H. Cole, the question of a name which was introduced one week ago was again brought up, and after discussion it was determined by a unanimous vote that this organization should hereafter be known as the "Orpheus Glee club" of Atlanta.

Several new pieces of music selected by the leader while in New York recently were found to be full of most pleasing harmony.

The "Orpheus" is hard at work and will be prepared with an extensive repertoire next season.

MR. HOYLE AND MISS GAINES MAR-RIED IN KNOXVILLE.

Mr. A. O. Venable Marries Miss Cocke, of Virginia-Other Events of Interest to Atlanta Society.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 19.—[Special.]—One of the most brilliant society events ever occurring in Knoxville took place at 8:30 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church—the aristocratic "Old First." It was the marriage of Mr. F. J. Hoyle and Miss Blanche Gaines. The church was beautifully decorated, the choicest gifts of the hot-house lending their fragramee and beauty to the occasion. At the appointed hour the groom entered upon the arm of his best man, Dr. N. O. Harris, of Atlanta, and the bride upon the arm of her brother, Mr. Towns Gaines. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Park. pastor, in a beautiful manner, and a ring being used. The maids were Misses Ella Gaines, the bride's sister, and Daisy Woodruff; the attendants, Misses Mary Gaines, sister; Maude Mitchell, Pauline Payne, Florence Buffington, of Huntingdon, W. Va.; Pauline Woodruff, Annie Lutteell and Emma and Lillie Morrow, of Nashville; and Messrs. Towns Gaines, brother; Frank McClung, Will Meeks, H. O. Ewing, of Chattanooga; R. H. The large church was crowded with Knoxville's most aristocratic people. As the party entered the church, the special choir sang the wedding march from Lohengrin. After the ceremony, the couple repaired to the residence of the bride's mother in West End, where an elegant wedding supper was served.

Two hundred and fifty guests were invited to the residence. The bridal couple received costly gifts without number, and checks for large sums. They leave at 2:45 in the morning for Atlanta, where they will spend a few days, and then go to Canada. The groom is car accountant of the East Ten-

D. Ellis, of Atlanta, with Miss Nina-Hansell, assisted by Mr. Jesse Coates with Miss. Pheshe Ellis, of Atlanta. Representative society people were present from all parts of the state. Many new and beautiful figures were introduced by the leader, and the Senior cerman was voted by all a leader, and the Senior german was voted by all a decided success. The leader and his assistant well deserved the high compliments they received for the admirable manner in which the dance was conducted, and for the pleasure which was af-torded to all through their thoughtfulness. Taken all in all, the Senior german was one of the pleasantest entertainments of commencement.

PEABODY INSTITUTE.

A CORRECTED LIST OF THE LEC-TURERS AND ESSAYISTS.

With the Date of Their Appearance—Judge Hook Has a Word or Two to Say of It—A Splendid Programme.

The Peabody institute will be formally opened at 9 o'clock, next Tuesday week, on the grounds of the Piedmont Chattauqua.

In a brief introductory address he will present to the teachers there assembled, Professor E. E. Sheib, of the University of South Carolina when conductors will present the deliverence of the de lina, who, as conductor, will announce the daily programme for the session.

There should, and doubtless will be, a large number of them present to greet Dr Sheib and his associate lecturers, and begin with them the important work to be kept up for three weeks. It is confidently believed that no teacher who begins with the opening services would be willing afterward to miss any part of the programme. Dr. Sheib has high reputation as a finished and most competent conductor of institute work, and he will be ably seconded and sustained by four of Georgia's distinguished and competent in-structors. Qualified judges, who know how important is the work mapped out for each day of the institute, affirm that a teacher attending cannot fail at the end of the session to feel that he is better prepared to do the work of his school more easily to himself and more satisfactorily to his pupils and patrons.

Judge Hook furnishes the perfect list of special lecturers and essayists, and the dates of the graduating class at the school Thursday Miss Sergeant desires it stated that this feature of the commencement will be, in every particular, as interesting as the Friday evening performance. Miss Sergeant desires to impress this upon the public, in justice to the young ladies, and in justice to those who may desire to witness these exercises.

Today this matter will be decided upon. Recently this question has created considerable discussion and comment, as practiced in public school exercises, on account of the expense attached to it.

Friday the examinations in the grammar schools will be held. They are always largely attended and always

IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER. Charles M. Hughes, the Merchant Tailor, Charles M. Hughes, merchant tailor, No. 3 Peachtree street, was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday.

R. L. Palmer is the receiver, temporarily.

Mr. Hughes's place has long been one of the most popular in Atlanta, and his failure will be a surprise to many of his friends.

The house was established a few years ago by Mr. Tom Miller and Mr. Walter Venable. Both were well known and popular in Atlanta, and the house seon acquired a good patronage. A year or so ago Mr. Venable disposed of his interest and Mr. Hughes came in, the firm being Miller & Huges.

Thirty days ago Mr. Hughes purchased Mr.

In making the trade Mr. Hughes gave Mr.

Miller a mortgage on the stock, fixtures, etc., for $3,000. nce the trade Mr. Hughes found himself unable to meet some obligations, and yester-day the Gate City National bank, to which Mr. Hughes owed $500, and some other creditors filed a creditor's bill. Mr. J. Carroll Payne represented the creditors, and when the bill was heard before Judge Clarke, Mr. R. L. Palmer was named as temporary receiver and Palmer was named as temporary receiver and the final hearing of the case set for Saturday.

Mr. Palmer is now in possession of the store, and finds the assets to be about $14,000, consisting of stock, fixtures and accounts, with liabilities less than $11,000.

Mr. Hughes came to Atlanta, from Wheel. Mr. Hughes came to Atlanta from Wheeling, W. Va., and since making Atlanta his home has won scores of friends by his pleasant, genial, business-like ways. No young man in Atlanta stands higher than he, and all who know him wish for him a speedy extrication from his financial troubles.

A Small Boy Runs Away From His Home in

Aubrey Dean, a bright-faced, neatly-dressed little fellow of 11 years, was brought to the station-house last night.

He had run away from his home in Richmand Virginia mond, Virginia.

The little fellow was very much frightened, and the tears came up to his eyes when Station-house Keeper Foute began questioning him about his home and his mother and father. He has been in Atlanta since Tuesday.

Last Monday he left Richmond in company with another boy a little older than himself. They stole their way together on freight trains as far as Atlanta, where the other boy disappeared, and has not since been seen by little Aubrey.

His people were telegraphed to, and it is expected that the little fellow will be sent back home at once.

Aubrey says his father works at the Richmond Car works, and that he has just moved to Richmond about three weeks ago.

He was never away from home before and ran away this time because the other boys coaxed him to.

KILLED FORTY ODD MEN.

Ben Thompson Was Polite and Courteous But Handy With His Gun. All over Texas Ben Thompson's note was no gotiable paper, and no man who ever presented him with a bill was treated with anything but colite business courtesy, says the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

I was introduced to Thompson at Austin,

Tw., and the meeting was not in a saloon, a gambling-house, not even a hotel. The place was a quiet, ordinary ice-cream parlor, and Ben Thompson and his wife were eating strawberry ice cream near a coterie of high school girls, one of them being a daughter of ex-Governor Ireland, of Texas.

Thompson was a small-sized man, vat not a daughter of ex-Governor Ireland, of Texas.
Thompson was a small-sized man, yet not slender. He was elegantly, yet not showily, dressed; his clothes indicated a correct taste, a diamond stud and a thread of gold watch chain comprising all of his personal jewelry. He was a handsome man of forty-five, with small, black mustache and hazel eyes.
Yet this man had a record of having killed thirteen white men and twice that number of Mexicans and Indians. A few months later he was himself killed in San Antonio, along with Kingfisher, in a hand-to-hand conflict with two other men in the Vaudeville theater

He was never known to take an unfair advantage of an enemy, a number of his victims having had the first shot at him.

Once in a store he ordered a man with whom he was engaged in a lively dispute to go outside and pass around the block to the right—he would pass around to the left and meet him.

him.

They did so; the man blazed away at Thompson with a shot-gun loaded with buckshot, missed, went into the air at the crack of Ben's revolver and fell a corpse.

And thus with every case of Thompson's numerous killings the preliminaries were always flavored with a dash of dramatic sensationalism.

As Thompson and his wife passed out of the ice-cream bazar I noticed that she had but one arm. The other had been shattered by a Winchester ball in Denver, when she threw it across Ben's head upon discovering a crouching form drawing a bead on him. At the time of his death Thompson was city marshal of Austin. Austin.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.

How a Young Southerner Treated Rffian.

From the New York Star.

I met a man yesterday who will carry a reminiscence of Memorial Day as long as he lives. Th reminiscence is a badly broken nose, and this is how he got it: On the afternoon of May 30 I came upon a crowd of men surrounding a big, bluster-ing, loud-mouthed man at the southern end of City Hall square. He was descanting on the Richmond monument, and telling what the gov-ernment ought to do to suppress the "rebel demon-stration." From that he turned to a thrade of abuse of southern men and women and especially the women, whom he charged with the grossest im morality. Suddenly a quiet-looking little man, with a Prince Albert coat and a high hat, stepped up to him. There was something in the young man's face—he was not over twenty-five—that awed the crowd which had before been laughing at the orator.

"Sir," said the young man, "I'm a southerner.

"Well, I can't help that," said the big fellow. "My mother and sisters are southern women. continued the young man, without noticing the interruption and in the same dangerously quiet way.

"Well," said the blatherskite contemptuously, "I don't know but what they are the same as—"
He did not get any further. The little man hit him such a blow as I never saw delivered outside of a prize ting. His "right" for the instant seemed to be a piledriver run by electricity. The big fel-low went down, and, after a quiver, laid still. The little man turned and said in the same quiet way: "Is there any gentleman here who sympathizes with his sentiments?" There wasn't any one who did, and several of those present tried to congratulate him, but he modestly walked away. The big fellow, with a broken nose and both eyes swollen shut, was carried into a drug store to be patched with the constraint of the co up. No one seemed to know who either of the parties was.

A Confederate's Honor. From the New York Star.

Louis Post, who lived through a year and a half of carpetbagism in South Carolina, told me the other night some remarkable stories of that other night some remarkable stories of that period. One of them exemplifies the best conception of southern "honah," and might well go down to history along with other such tales of devotion to ideas. At the time in question one of many prisoners held without bail on the charge of ku-kluxism, and likely, as all the world supposed, to be convicted and hanged, was an exconfederate colonel. This man received word that his child was lying at the point of death, and asked of the commandant permission to visit his his child was lying at the point of death, and asked of the commandant permission to visit his home, fourteen miles away, in the country. The commandant knew the character of his prisoner, and let him go with no other hold upon him than the man's promise to return at sunset two days later. As the hour for the prisoner's return approached, the commandant uneasily watched the setting sun and showed unmistakable signs of disturbance, but just as the sun disappeared below the horizon the ex-confederate signs of disturbance, but just as the sun dis-appeared below the horizon the ex-confederate presented himself and saluted. He had walked the whole distance back and forth, and now he came with the news that his child was still living, though beyond hope. Could he go back if he would premise to return to his prison in twenty-four hours? The commandant again set the prisoner free, and twenty-feur hours later he re-turned and gave limself up. Happily, his faith-fulness to promises was rewarded, for neither he nor any other Ku-Klux was hanged.

SENSATION IN THE DEATH OF POORJIM LOVELACE.

The Coroner's Jury Issues Warrants Against William Gault and Charles Gault— Their Relations With Lovelace.

Jim Lovelace, whose mangled remains were gathered up along the Western and Atlantic railroad, near the old rolling mill, Tuesday night, was, in the opinion of the coroner's jury, murdered. The coroner's jury, which sat in inquest yes terday and Wednesday, had two warrants for parties suspected of the crime sworn out. The warrants are against William Gault and Charles Gault. These men are charged with the murder of Jim Lovelace.

Yesterday morning early the warrants were put in the hands of a bailiff, but as yet neither one of the Gaults has been arrested.

They live about two or three miles from the city, out in the neighborhood of the Chattahoochee river. It was rumored yesterday that both the men had left for parts unknown, but no definite information to sustain this rumor has been secured.

Today the inquest will be continued, and the coroner stated yesterday that the two Gaults would be brought before the jury at that time if they were in Fulton county.

William Gault is the stepfather of the young girl whom Lovelace married about three weeks before his horrible death. Charlie Gault is his son and Mrs. Lovelace's half-brother.

At the session of the coroner's jury yester day evidence tending to strengthen the belief that Jim Lovelace was the victim of foul play was adduced.

Taken from their evidence, the circumstances leading up to Tuesday night's tragedy are substaintially the following: About three weeks ago Jim Lovelace, the dead man, married William Gault's stepdaughter. He lived with her only about two weeks and then they separated, she going back to her home. The cause of the separation was, it is understood, an accusation which Lovelace brought against his wife's character. A day or two after the separation, the day on which he was killed, Lovelace went to the Gault place, where his wife was staying. He had been drinking, and before leaving, he made things very lively about the place, mashing a well bucket thrown at his wife and committing other acts of violence.

When Mr. Gault and his son came home and heard of Lovelace's visit, and what he had said and done, they became very angry. By several, so it is charged, they were heard to threaten vengeance on Lovelace.

This added to the rumors that the Gaults had disappeared and induced the swearing out of the warrants for them. At today's session of the coroner's jury they will be introduced if they can be found. It is possible that they may be able to vindicate themselves, and it may be that they will be held for trial in the superior court.

A Small Fire.—Yesterday afternoon a small fire, located in a stable on Pulliam street, belonging to Mr. Richards, called the department out. The blaze was extinguished before any considerable damage was done.

Married at the Park.—A romantic marriage occured at Grant park yesterday afternoon. A well-dressed young white man, and a really pretty young girl were united in the holy bonds by the side of Grant spring. Rev. Mr. Eads performed the ceremony. Visitors at the park did not know what was transpiring until after the happy couple had gone on their way rejoicing. They were from the country, and the marriage may have been a clandestine one.

Would make, with the Savannah, Griffin-North Alabama, a terminal line from Griffin-or Macon—to Chattanooga. The Memphis and Charleston would be a splendid western outlet, the whole forming a strong system.

The Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus is, in other words, the missing link in a terminal line from Memphis to the sea.

Aside even from that consideration, the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus is said to be good property. Its territory is rich in minerals, and is developing rapidly.

Still another reason for crediting the report that the Terminal wants it, is that the road is in position to become very valuable to the Louisville and Nashville, particularly in event the Louisville and Nashville, misses the Western and Atlantic, and is forced to provide a new inlet to the Atlanta territory.

The progressive, not to say aggressive, policy of the Terminal sanctions this view of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern.

"The first car into Athens over the Georgia,

"You mean that this division will be in operation before the one they are at work on "That is my information—that the work between Atlanta and Athens is to be pushed vigorously." "How much work remains to be done at the other end?"

"Track is now being laid at Enorce river, sixty miles from the Savannah river. A squad is also laying iron from Greenwood in the direction of that place, and the two squads will meet in a few weeks at Saluda river, when the first train will be run to Greenwood. The road is now graded, with the exception of a very small amount of light work, to Abbeville, S. C., which brings the engines within seventeen miles of the Savannah river. In a few days the iron will be put down where this road crosses the Savannah Valley railroad, and will, from here, bring material to complete the bridge across the Savannah river. On this latter structure workmen are now engaged, and two piers of the bridge to cross it have been already erected. From Abbeville to within five miles of Athens, the road is covered with men, mules and implements for grading, and they are pushing work right lively, too."
"When will the road be completed from Atlanta to Athens?"

"Before Christmas."

About the Railroad Commission.

A big issue in state politics in Texas is the establishment of a railroad commission. A great many inquiries have come from there to the executive department here relative to the work of the commission in Georgia. Governor Gordon is having prepared now a careful and accurate letter of information on

The gist of the letter is that the commission has been a benefit to people and to railroads alike; a strong conservative element in the railroad situation. The commission is commended to the people of Texas.

UNCLE BILLY BOWERS

On the War Path-He Has Found a Wolf in the Fold.

Uncle Billy Bowers is on the war path. A wolf is in the fold and Uncle Billy is after It was a wolf in sheep's clothing, too—a nice young man who knew the catechism and the spelling-book, and was agreeable to the ladies.

"He is a nice boy," said Uncle Billy, with a shade of sadness. "I taught him his letters."

Some months ago Mr. Duncan, of Hart county, who is a son-in-law of Uncle Billy Bowers, lost a cotton-planter. The nice young man passed by the farm late in the afternoon, diving a sulky. The next morning the cotton-

Mr. Duncan was suspicious, and tracked the sulky to the home of Aifred Owens, the nice young man. There, in one of the out-buildings, they found the cotton planter.

Sometime last fall, Mr. Duncan's buggy was missing. Some months later, Mr. Duncan got wind of it in South Carolinia, and went after it. The South Carolinian to whom Owenshad sold the buggy had traded it back to a Georgian, but he told Mr. Duncan who brought it to South Carolina. It was the nice young man—Alfred Owens.

The buggy was found at the home of the Georgian who had traded for it with the South Carolinian. Being an honest man, he promptly surrendered the property when he had been convinced that it belonged to Mr.

Duncan.

But the pursuit does not stop there. Mr. Duncan got Uncle Billy Bowers to put this notice in the Bowersville American Union:
I had a buggy stolen from me at West Bowersville in October, 1888. It was taken to South Carolina and sold by one Mr. Alfred Owens.
After I got the buggy I went to see Mr. Owens to learn of him how he came in possession of the buggy, He was not at home, and has not been heard of by me since. I have no knowledge of his whereabouts.

ROBERTSON RELEASED.

Tried on a Charge of Larceny After Trust Delegated. In the case of the state against Adolph Robertson, charged with larceny after trust delegated, yesterday, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. Robertson was employed as a traveling salesman by Regenstein & Co., and squandered $1,100 of the firm's money gambling, at Opelika, some time ago, for which he was arrested.

During the time that he was engaged in the

During the time that he was engaged in the gambling frolic, he sold his trunk and samples to one man and afterwards sold them to another, delivering the trunk and samples to the last purchaser.

For that offense a requisition was obtained from Governor Gordon, and the papers were placed in the hands of the sheriff of Fulton county. In case Robertson was cleared of the first charge he was to be arrested and sent back to Alabama.

But when Robertson was acquitted he walked out of the court-house unmolested. He said that he was going to Birmingham, in spite of the fact of the warrants,

THE RETAIL MERCHANTS TO MEET. A State Convention to Be Held in Atlanta

July 24th. The retail merchants of Georgia are to meet in convention here in Atlanta on the 24th of Yesterday, a committee of the Retail Grocers' association formulated a call to the retailers of the state. That call, which explains the object of the proposed convention, reads as the object of the proposed convention, reads as follows:

To the Merchants of the State of Georgia: Has not the time fully come when the merchants of our state should take some steps by which they can be protected from the dishonesty of a large portion of our citizens, who support themselves and faulties by obtaining merchandies from us as merchants, intending never to pay for them, or refusing to do so on the slightest pretext, as they are aware of the fact that there is no law in existence by which payment can be forced from thom? All interests have their protection. The contractor and the millimen have their liens; the real estate deaders have their mortgages; the bankers have their endorsers; the cotton factors have their liens and mortgages; the insurance companies can cancel their policies when the premium is not paid; the landlords have their protection have the merchants? None in the world. They are forced by custom to extend credit to their patrons, and many prove themselves unworthy of confidence, and we think and believe that our state, to which we pay taxes for her support, should adopt some law for our protection. And there is no law that our legislature can enact that will protect us as well as a general garnishment law, which will force every man to pay his debts.

There will be a convention of representative retail increhants of all business held in Atlanta, Ga., July 24, 1890. Please call a meeting of your nerchants and send two or more delegates to this convention:

OUR FRIEND THE BED BUG.

If you would quickly and permanently rid your beds of bugs, put a small box of ROUGH ON RATS in a pint bottle of benzine, shake well when using. Douche the mixture into the cracks, crevices, holes and openings of the bedstead. It will turn their toes up rapidly. Then mix another small box of ROUGH ON RATS thoroughly with a quarter pound of lard, with this mixture fill all holes, openings, cracks and crevices in the bed. These two methods are warranted to never fail; to be effective and lasting. Cut this out for directions.

How to Buy Cigars.

Is it more profitable for a retail dealer in cigars to buy from the manufacturer than from the jobber? This is a vital question for every retailer to buy I'm tab manufacture to to consider.

We have saved our customers the jobber's prifit for the last six years. This accounts partly for the steady increase of the demand for our fine Havana cigars which equal in taste, flavor and Spanisn workmanship the best imported from Cuba; and they give entire satisfaction, for Atlanta's prominent men have been our steady customers ever since we established our factory.

We sell to the retail trade at wholesale price in quantities of one box and upward. We guarantee our goods and ship them to any place in the country. And we are willing at any time to take the goods back and refund the money if they do not turn out to be as we represent them. The buyer runs, therefore, no risk at all.

There are many smokers who pay high prices for cigars which do not satisfy their taste. Let them call at our factory and get their money's worth, or write to

DIAMONDS IN GEORGIA.

THE STORY OF TREIR DISCOVERY NEAR GAINESVILLE.

The Original Stone Now Worn By an Atlanta Lady-The Abundance of Itacolumite in Georgia.

There is an interesting story connected with the $300 briffiant that flashes on the finger of an Atlanta lady. That stone is the first dia-mond discovered in Georgia, and its history is worth relating.

In 1838 Dr. Joseph Habersham and Dr. William C. Daniel, leading physicians of Savannah, made a summer in North Georgia, and, as educated gentlemen were fond of doing in those days, they spent a good part of their outing in looking into the resources of the

The important events of that summer are told by Judge William W. Habersham, a son of the doctor, who was a member of that "In the month of July," said he, "they arrived at Gainesville, which was then a little country town with no accommedations. Dr. Banks, who lived twelve miles from there, met the Savannah gentlemen and took them to his place at the 'Glade mine,' which was then being sluiced for gold.

"On their arrival, Dr. Habersham and Dr. Daniel accompanied Dr. Banks to the mine. As they stood there an Irishman who was working on the sluice stepped up to Dr. Banks with a pretty stone in his hand and asked what it was. Dr. Banks handed the stone to my father and asked him in turn. "'It is a diamond in the rough,' said Dr.

"Dr. Daniel had said he was going to Europe that fall and Dr. Banks requested him to take the stone with him and ascertain whether it was a genuine diamond; and if so, to have it cut and set in a lady's ring, which he would present to his infant daughter when she came to be married. . "The next day the same Irishman handed Dr. Banks a similar stone, saying he had found it in the sluice also. Dr. Banks handed it to Dr. Daniel, saying, 'I will present you with this for the trouble you will have in aftending to the cutting and setting of the other stone."

"Dr. Daniel went to England and submitted the stone to one of the best lapidaries of that country, who pronounced it a diamond of the first-water, werth about $290. It was cut and set in a ring as Dr. Banks had requested, and Dr. Daniel had the other stone set in a pin, which I have often seen sparkling in the breast of his ruffled shirt. The sight of it led me to make a remark which drew out the whole story from my father.

"Now comes the singularity of the incident connected with this ring. In 1879 I was associated with Colonel Carey. W. Stiles, in the conduct of the Gainesville Eagle, of which I was the mining editor. One day Colonel Redwine, the proprietor of the paper, came into the office and said: 'Judge, a lady sent you this ring to examine and determine its value. What do you think it is worth?'

"'It is a diamond of the first water,' said I; 'worth about $300.'

"You must be a judge of diamonds,' said he. ther stone.'
"Dr. Daniel went to England and submitted he.

"'Where did you get this ring?' I asked.
"'He told me Dr. Banks had given it to his daughter on her wedding day. This then, was the stone my father had seen taken out of the sluice at the Glade mine nearly fifty years before. "After I came to Atlanta a gentleman came to my office one day to consult me about minto my office one day to consult me about minerals.

"Do you know of any diamonds having been found in Georgia?" said he.

"Dr. Stevenson has frequently told me that quite a number have been found in Hall county,' I replied, 'but I have evidence of none except in one instance. A lady of Atlanta had in her possession a ring in which is set a diamond worth $309. That diamond was found in Hall county forty years ago."

"'Who is the lady?' said he. I told him, and he said it was at her instance that he came to consult me. Since then I have seen the diamond on the lady's finger."

"Are there many indications of diamonds in Georgia?"

"Itacolumite, the matrix of the diamond, is abundant in some parts of Georgia. I have frequently found it in the cuts of the Richmond and Danville railroad. I have seen flexible pieces twelve inches or more in length."

sit well With Your Kidneys?

Few appreciate the constant duties performed by the Kidneys, yet fewer appreciate how easily these important organs are deranged. The Kidneys are bean-shaped, filled with veins, arteries and little tubes; these tubes filter the water from the blood; the water thus collected is poured into the ureters, and by them conducted into the bladder.

Another function of the Kidneys is to eliminate urea, uric acid and other waste products which so quickly poison the whole system if left to course through the blood.

Now, when the Kidneys become diseased and fail to discharge their important functions, the skin, liver, bowels and lungs undertake the work of elimination—a work these organs are unfitted to perform to perform.

It is readily understood that with this unnatural condition of things the whole body will soon become diseased, and death, alas! will too often follow.

Stuart's Gin and Buchu is a true Kidney tonic. It is quickly taken up by the blood and is filtered out by the little Kidney tubes, and is consequently directly applied to the affected spots.

A NEW AVENUE

WHICH WILL MAKE A HANDSOME DRIVEWAY TO THE PARK.

The Formation of the Park Avenue Land Company and What it Means—A Splendid Entrance to Grant Park.

The Park Avenue Land Improvement com

That is the name of an organization which has undertaken a work that means much to the people of Atlanta.

That work is, primarily, the construction of a splendid driveway from Capitol avenue to Grant park—an avenue that will, when completed, be one of the few pleasant drives about Atlanta.

Yesterday's Constitution contained an application for a charter of this new company, the petitioners being Messrs. W. A. Hemphill, H. M. Cottingham, T. G. Rawlings, C. T. Swift and J. M. Brosius. They put the capital stock of the new company at $200,000, of which $100,000 has been paid in, and ask that permission to increase to $500,000 capital stock be given in the charter. They give as their business that of handling real estate. But that application contains nothing to inlicate the plans of the company. Messrs. Hemphill, Cottingham, Rawlings Swift and Brosins and their associates own several tracts of the most valuable vacant land within the city limits. Their property lies between Capitol avenue and Grant park, just beyond Georgia avenue. The north just beyond Georgia avenue. The north boundary is Little street. All of this property lies beautifully and is in everyway desirable.

The most noteworthy improvement to be made at once is the construction of a sixty-foot driveway through the heart of this property to Grant park. This avenue will leave Capitol avenue at a point probably 300 feet south of the head of Ormond street. From there the new avenue will be broad and straight, and will head directly to one of the straight, and will head directly to entrances to Atlanta's beautiful park. The property along this avenue will be beautiful for residences and will doubtless be most popular, for it has every possible advantage. I

But this is only part of the contemplated

Ormond street is to be cut through to the park and along it the new extension of the Atlanta Street railway will be built. This company will soon have a line in operation through to the park, thus furnishing to the people out there quick transportation to the

Just north of this property the new school-house is to be built, and there will be everything to make it a most desirable resider

A Safe Guard. A Safe Guard.

Few people living in a malarial country but occasionally need a vigorous tonic, either to keep off the malarial feeling or else to cure the disease if it once gets into the system. There is no more uncomfortable disease that affects humanity than chills and fever. It drives away energy and ambition. It makes one feel sick and mean all over. A safe guard against the disease and a sure cure is Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky. A single bottle will do for an entire family. It is far better than quinine, as no derangement of the system ever follows its use. The use of quinine causes a buzzing in the rangement of the system ever ionows its use. The use of quinine causes a buzzing in the ears, dizzy sensations, nausea and sometimes even convulsions and paralysis. Use Smith's Tonic Syrup and all such danger is avoided. In fact it has all the good medicinal qualities of quinine with none of its evil nature.

I have issued a limited number of special rate club tickets for my line cabinet photographs. All who will form clubs please call at once at my gal-ery and got tickets and instructions. The getter up of each club will be entitled to a fine large photograph or its value in cash if preferred. tt C. W. Mores.

YOUR OWN LIFE.

May Be Saved if You Will Think of Yourself a Moment and Then Act. Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching a Moment and Then Act.

Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhea, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female, who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases refusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slow as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happily death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. This is a terrible picture, but a true one. You may by neglect make this your own; can you take the risk when a cure is offered you? Treating rectal diseases exclusively for a number of years, I am able to offer you a cure without the usual pain attending the treatment employed by one who has not the experience in treating these diseases. The mode of treatment I employ for their cure is mild and is not unpleasant in anyway, as I use neither knife or causitic applications. I have cured many, and I am willing that they should tell you of my success if you wish it. I can furnish you their names if you prefer it. On my past success I am willing to stand or fall. Can I offer you anything fairer? If you wish to investigate what I have said, I extend to you an invitation to consult me, (free of cost,) and I will prove all I have said to the satisfaction of the most skep

THE GRAND JURY

MAKES ITS REGULAR PRESENT-MENTS ABOUT COUNTY MATTERS.

A New Jail is an Absolute Necessity-The State of the Different County Institution-Some Recommendations.

We, the grand jury chosen and sworn for the spring term, 1800, of Fulton county, having fin-ished our labors, beg leave to submit the following

1. We have reappointed Samuel A. Swan and W. H. Scott who were appointed by our predecessors to examine the records of Fulton county, and they will make their report to the next grand jury, (fail were appointed by the foreman, and their reports were unanimously adopted.

JUSTICE DOCKETS.

The committee appointed to examine the dockets of the justices of the peace and notary public in the county beg to report that we have examined the same, as far as possible, and find them, as a general thing, well kept and correct. A number of the justices of the peace, and notary publics and ex-office justices of the peace, and notary publics and ex-office justices of the peace, and notary publics and ex-office justices of the peace in distant parts of the county, have not brought their dockets up for examination, although they have been notified to do so. In our opinion they should bring them, even if they have had no new cases.

The committee appointed to examine the public buildings, having done the same, beg leave to submit the following report:

That we have visited the alms-houses, and find all the buildings connected with the institution in excellent repair. We also found quite a large number of inmates, who were provided with good, wholesome food and other countorts, and who appear to be contented with their lot. It is gratifying to the committee to find that there are good crops of corn, potatoes, vegetables, etc., produced on the place, which goes largely to the cupport of the inmates. Taking the establishment as a whole, we think it is one of the best instinctions of its kind in the south and reflects great credit on the county officials and Dr. Inoph, the superintendent in charge. We find the juilding in a fair state of repair, but in our judgment it is entirely inadequate to the want of the county, being too small to a commodate the large number of prisoners comined in it; the sy, the of sewe age is very imperfect and, in our opinion, in view of all the facts before us, we would recommend that the county court-house in need of repairs, which should have immediate attention. Otherwise, we find the building in good condition and clean. We suggest that a little money spent in painting the interior of the bui ROADS.

The committee on public roads beg leave to sub-painted would add greatly to the benefits of the same.

ROADS.

The committee on public roads beg leave to submit the following, we have endeavored to examine the important roads throughout the county as a whole, and by sub-committees. On the north side we find Peachtree road to the bridge over the creek in a good condition, from the bridge to Euckhead, very bad, and recommend that the same from the bridge be straightened, graded and macadamized to Buckhead, as this is an important road and public necessity demands that it be first-class. The Roswell road between Donaldsons and Mitchells is too narrow and in bad condition and should receive prompt attention. The bridge at Nancee's creek should be repaired at once. We also find the main road in Oak Grove district in a very bad condition. The bridge on Long Island creek is badly in need of repair. Many citizens have requested that a new road from Peachtree road across to the Belt junction be opened, and we recommend that the board of county commissioners examine into the necessity of the public interest in this regard; also a similar request touching a new road from Luckie street to the Mount Parin road. Plaster Bridge road we found in good condition, excepting the approach to the bridge, which needs repairing. There should also be new flooring and railings on the bridge. The above demands immediate attention. The Johnson road, on which the Fulton County street railway runs, near W. A. Moore's place, needs repairing in several places, as the road-bed of the said railway, being raised above the grade of the public road, has caused the water to stand in ugly und-holes for the want of proper drainage. The Johnson road along the line of the Atlanta and Slorida railroad and right of way near Jordan's afili is in a very bad condition, and should be either filled or drained. We would also call attention to the great danger to life at the railway rossing on Mason and Turner's Ferry road. We Pres suggest that the county commissioners should take the necessary steps either the same.

COUNTY CHAIN-GANG.

The committee on county chain-gang beg leave to submit the following: We visited the North Atlanta camp, and found that it had been partly vacated to the new camp, and therefore have no report to submit on it. The South Atlanta camp we found in very good condition and preparations being made to vacate to the new camp, which no doubt has been done by now, and therefore feel that any further remarks on that camp are unnecessary. Our visit to the new barracks was one of pleasure. From the poor and unsanitary conditions of the old camp to the new well arranged one on the Mason and Turner's Ferry road, we feel that the county commissioners have performed a good work, and while, the cost was about $40,000 we think the expenses justify the commending of Mr. W. J. Garrett, the chairman of the committee on public buildings, and the balance of the commissioners for the convicts. We also visited the convicts at their work on the public roads and found them in good condition and the work which was being done was good and substantial; also in general conversation with a great many, we found them well satisfied with their diet, which was well cooked and of which they reteived as much as they wished. We also find that Mr. T. J. Donald-son is a good and faithful superintendent, humane but strict. COUNTY CHAIN-GANG.

The committee to visit the state convict camp, having done so, submit the following: We found the condition of the camp, in a general way, was well, and the sleeping quarters likewise; the diet was well prepared and the immates received plenty of good bread, meat, vegetables and buttermilk. The committee questioned a large number of the convicts and in no instance was any complaint made, they being well satisfied with their diet and treatment. We also visited the camp at Bolton, where the female convicts are working in a broom factory. The place was in excellent, condition, both steeping quarters and work-shop; the diet was the same as at the male camp, and all prisoners seemed contented. We think that the separation of the male and female convicts was a step in the rigit direction, and hope that the same plan will be dopted throughout the state.

We most carnestly concur in the recommendations of our predecessors, that the county commissioners do all in their power to assist the movement for a house of correction for children.

To Young Wives.

A disappointed bachelor has said that some time after marriage a man's wife ceases to be supremely attractive to him. Never was a greater libel. Beauty preserved and grace retained can never lose their charm or yield their empire. The preservation of our bodies an their original healthy perfection and comliness is a sacred duty. Every young mother who will faithfully carry out the directions given with each bottle of "Mother's Friend" will never lose figure or complexion. The

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

Exchange. NEW YORK, June 19.—Today witnessed the completion of the raid begun yesterday, and while there was marked animation in the forenoon, with further depression in values, the pressure was removed later in the day and dullness followed, with some improvement in values upon the covering of shorts. The bears found that, the decline had reached the point where stocks ceased to come out and they are a very healers were haven and the raid sudand holders were buyers again, and the raid suddenly ceased as it was started. Dealings are still almost entirely professional, and while operators for a ruse are not taking an active part in the dealings as to stock exchange, they are not in-clined to part with their holdings at less than the ruling prices, but raids like that of yesterday and this morning require some support to be given the market, and it was forthcoming at the opening market, and it was forthcoming at the opening this forenoon, The struggle was sharp and severe for a short time, but the bears soon retired, and as soon as the pressure was removed the market sank away into duliness, with some appreciation of values from the operations of the belated shorts. The talk of the street is now more about railroad troubles and gold shipments, a small lot radicoad troubles and gold shipments, a small lot more of the latter having been ordered for ship-ment today, although its influence had been pretty well discounted in the market and was not perceptible. The figures show that the bank of Germany holds about $20,000,000 less gold than it did a year ago, and the bank of France about $50,000 a year ago, and the bank of France about $50,000 more than at that time. The rumor is that the German chancellor has ordered evening up of the difference, and hence the exports from this port, as there is no more to be had in London. That transactions are made at a loss is without doubt, though the bears labor to prove that the rate of though the bears labor to prove that the rate of exchange on Berlin will permit its being done without loss. In the market today the pressure at the opening by traders who were continuing the raid had the effect of opening the market off from ½ to ½ per cent, with exceptional declines in a few stocks. The resistance met with, however, at concessions soon caused a cossation of the hammering operations, and before noon the market had again diffted back into dillness, with prices had again drifted back into duliness, with prices once more on a level with those of the opening. The news of the afternoon was considered more favorable to the final passage of the silver bill, and traders went in to bring about a rally, and the covering of shorts was soon a factor in the slow but steady appreciation of values, which before the close had brought most of the list up to small Gas was a leader in the advance, and Jersey Central also made sharp progress, the two stocks closing 11/4 and 1 per cent, respectively, higher than last evening. The close was quiet to dull but firm at the improvement. The rest of the list were gen-erally small fractions better than last evening. Sales of listed aggregated 244,000 shares; unlisted by a prominent foreign house on a large line of short cotton for August upon a descending scale, commencing upon the opening call and continuing during the entire day. This demand absorbed all the offerings, and, while the market closed dethe offerings; and, while the market closed de-cidedly lower upon June and July, August delivery is steady, and the market seems ready for a reac-tion if we should receive any encouragement from Liverpool spinners, who hold the key to that mar-ket, and will fix the price at which they are wil-ling to buy the cotton which they are cive from now on. Crop advices continue very tavorable, but the trade is confident cotton will be needed at present prices for the growing crop when it comes from the plantations. comes from the plantations
